"Boys, I'll tell you what Free Enterprise really is!"

"It's a lot of little things—and some mighty big things, too.

"But in a nutshell, it's our right to live our own lives, run our own jobs and our own businesses in our own way—without needless interference.

"It's our right to criticize the government, bawl out the umpire, or make a speech on the public square. It's our right to travel when and where we choose—to work or not, as we please.

"It offers opportunity to anyone who really wants it. It rewards thrift, hard work and ingenuity. It thrives on competition and raises our standard of living. It encourages invention, stimulates research and promotes progress.

"It offers us a chance to save and invest and build and grow.

"Under Free Enterprise men who have faith in an idea can take risks to develop it. Our railways started that way. So did the motor car industry—and oil and steel and aviation and scientific mechanized farming.

"Free Enterprise made small shops and factories into big ones—and then started more small ones. And now, fighting a desperate war in which production will turn the scale, America is out-producing every other country in the world, hands down—and is doing it faster and better.

"Yet in spite of all this, some folks would like to change our American way of doing things —and rebuild our whole country under a new and different system.

"If they had their way, Tom here, wouldn't own this store. He'd be regimented with a lot of other storekeepers and told how to run his business by some bureaucrat who probably never tended store in his life.

"Ed's farm would belong to the state, and Ed would be told how to run it and what to raise by someone he wouldn't even know.

"Jim would be working for a state-owned factory—with his job and wages frozen. And I don't know where we country doctors would be.

"We fellows aren't rich—and probably never will be. But we've got a lot of self-respect and religion and decency and common sense. We own our own homes and farms, send our kids to college, have cars, radios, and a lot more of the luxuries of life than millions of people living under fancy political systems and 'planned economies' in other countries.

"Sure, we're willing to put up with a lot of irritating things right now—in order to win the war—but I don't believe we'll stand for being pushed around much after it's over.

"Frankly, I don't like the name Free Enterprise for the system under which this country has grown great. I'd rather call it American Enterprise, because it's the most American thing we have. It really is America. Let's keep it."

Out of a welter of confusion which had more or less characterized the field of higher education for a year, April, 1944, brought a few tangibles.

At Lehigh University, as in a legion of colleges depending upon private support, the tangibles were not good news and many questions remained unanswered. Temporarily, however, an era of shadow-boxing was over.

Principle sword which had dangled over the heads of educators for months was the indication that the War Department's Army Student Training Program was to be withdrawn from the colleges. Beginning in July, 1943 at Lehigh, this program had essentially "taken over" the physical plant and provided work for scores of faculty members whose presence would not have been justified by civilian enrollment alone.

Indeed, by October the 1,431 enrolled by the War Department under the AST Program as well as the Reserve Officer Training and Student Training Reserve Unit (boys under 18) dwarfed the 457 undergraduate figure. And more drastic cuts in student deferment were steadily sapping civilian totals.

The War Department had let it be known that the ASTP was not designed as a boon to the colleges but as a war necessity. The winter months brought increasing uneasiness as the program seemed to be losing ground even on that basis. By February, the army forces were reduced several hundred. By April long files of soldiers under full pack marched from the campus beneath appropriately dull skies. On the campus remained 13 lonely Reservists and some 350 civilians. Shortly the axe was to fall again. Eighty-two embryo scientists, deferred under the roster of Specialized and Scientific Personnel, got their walking papers.

The Board of Trustees of the University called into special session April 14 came to grips with a tough situation and met it squarely. The Board decided:

- 1) Pending the selection of a permanent president to succeed Dr. C. C. Williams who retires on June 30, 1944, the administration of Lehigh will be conducted by an administrative committee consisting of the Deans of the three undergraduate colleges, Arts and Science, Business Administration, and Engineering. The men concerned, Philip M. Palmer, Chairman, Dr. Neil Carothers and A. Copeland Callen, will carry out the Board's policies under the direction of its Executive Committee.
- 2) In view of the expected decline in student enrollment at Lehigh during the coming year it would be necessary to make some temporary reductions in teaching forces and to effect economies wherever practicable. The policy aimed to maintain a teaching staff adequate to continue the high standards of instruction that have heretofore prevailed at Lehigh and to offer diversified curriculum designed to meet the requirements of the student body.
- 3) It was expected that such reductions in the teaching staff as are made would be largely through temporary leaves of absence granted to certain members of the faculty who are able to devote all or part of their time to various forms of war work for which they are specially qualified.

Unwritten in the appointment of the Deans' Committee was the important secondary effect of taking the pressure from the presidential selection committee by providing a pro-tem administration until such time as a completely satisfactory candidate could be engaged.

No sinecure is the job assumed by Lehigh's three capable college deans. A prudent administration by President Williams will bring the University through June 30 next without a deficit as the War Department contract expires on that date. Some $250,000 laid aside in the past two years as a war reserve provides a cushion. But essentially the task is one of cutting the cloth to suit an unprecedented drop in enrollment approximating 84%.

Lehigh's class agents whose primary responsibility is solicitation of the Alumni Fund, again saw an opportunity for Lehigh men to step into the picture financially as they did in 1942-43 when their contributions just equalled the University's net surplus for that fiscal year. Now, these agents reasoned, an even greater demand seemed apparent. Even the Press featured the plight of the Nation's colleges. What, then, was Lehigh's financial picture in dollars and cents?

There was and there is no complete answer to date. Until the Dean's Committee and the Executive Committee of the Board can say what tuition may be expected, what buildings may be closed, what staff may be maintained, definite figures would be misleading. Hasty calculations are enough, however, to generalize that Alumni Fund totals averaging $34,501 annually in the war years to date must be increased sharply if more than nominal responsibility is to be assumed. Meanwhile, doing their best, Lehigh class agents are indicating the nature of the situation to their classmates and (see page 12) have already found a heartening response in contributions.

Even without the benefit of information which only succeeding months can bring, certain things are evident. While encouraging some faculty members to take leaves of absence, Lehigh is still maintaining a nucleus of top men who can guarantee the same high standard of instruction even to a limited student body.

Lehigh University will stay in operation in the face of possible financial losses of any proportions which can be envisioned at present and by specific mandate of the Board, faculty members are to be accorded the utmost consideration in any re-arrangements involving their personal welfare.

Lehigh's alumni body, traditionally responsive to financial crises, is already displaying the sense of responsibility which has given the University more than half its physical plant and has provided the backlog of progress over the last half century.

On the Cover this Month

for personnel . . . with an awkward fuel situation

The pressing need of converting existing buildings to their best war-time uses has presented many difficult heating problems. Example: A rambling structure that had been designed as a freight warehouse was requisitioned for use as an Ordnance Depot.

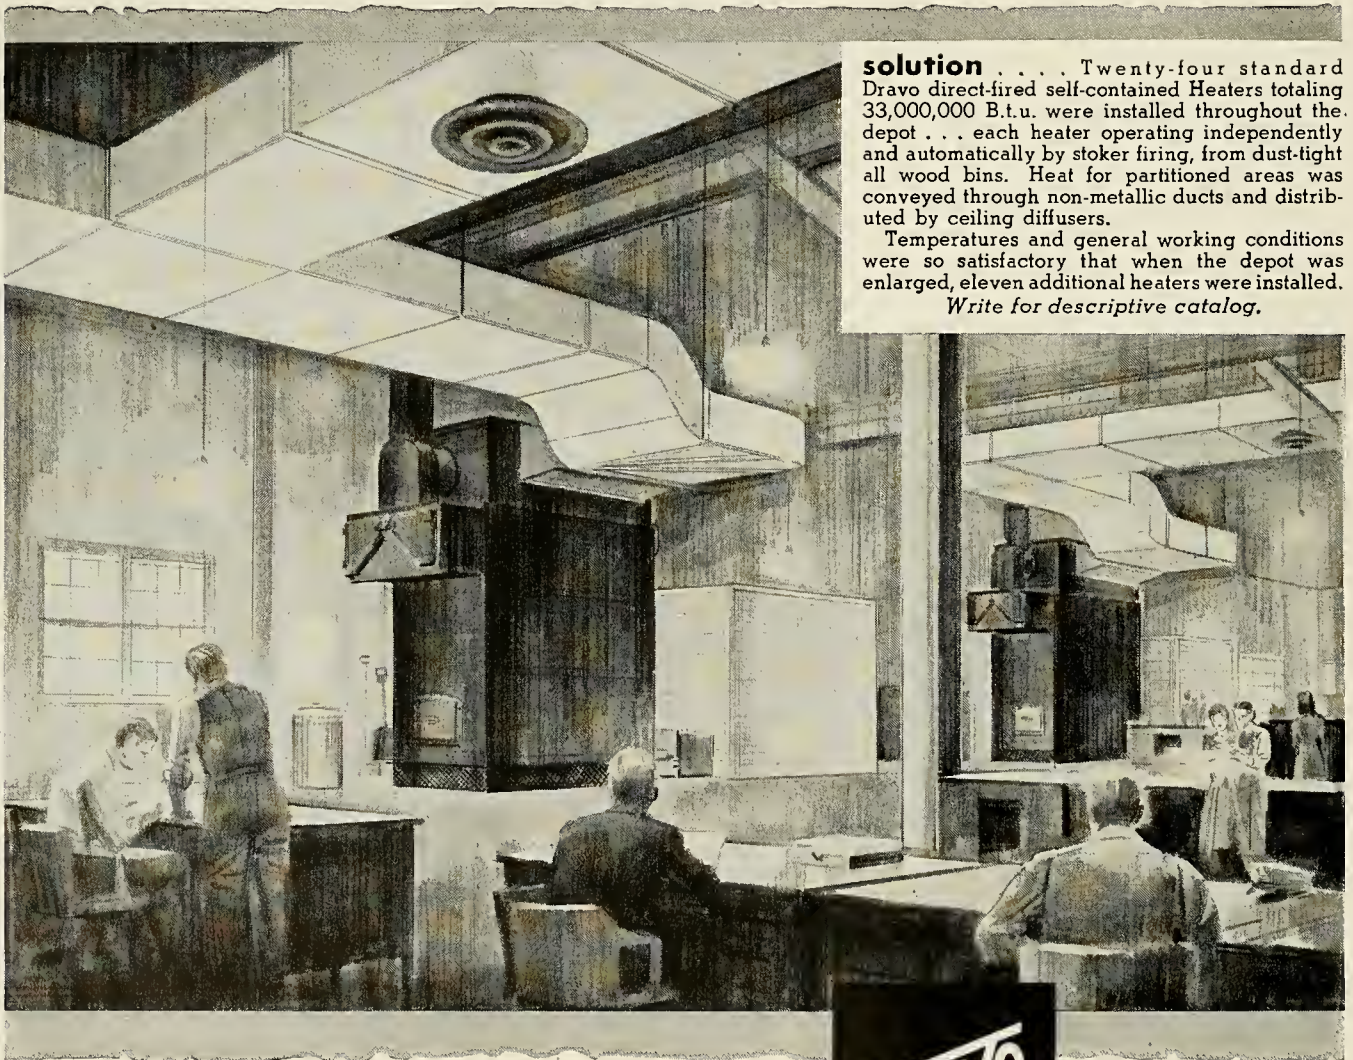

The partitioning of areas for office workers greatly increased the number of points to which heat must be delivered. Total heat requirements were 33,000,000 B.t.u. per hour. Coal was the only available fuel. A central boiler plant and distributing system would have required a prohibitive amount of critical metals. Its installation would have consumed precious time.

solution Twenty-four standard Dravo direct-fired self-contained Heaters totaling 33,000,000 B.t.u. were installed throughout the depot . . . each heater operating independently and automatically by stoker firing, from dust-tight all wood bins. Heat for partitioned areas was conveyed through non-metallic ducts and distributed by ceiling diffusers.

Temperatures and general working conditions were so satisfactory that when the depot was enlarged, eleven additional heaters were installed.

VICE PRESIDENT of the expanding Link-Belt Company, Edward J. Burnell, '12, assumed greater responsibility last month when, placed in charge of sales for the entire concern, he began his new duties in the company's executive office in Chicago. That alumnus Burnell is well fitted for the task of directing Link-Belt's sales force is evidenced by his background. Entering the company's employ as a draftsman in 1913, he soon became district engineer for the Pittsburgh sales branch and in 1920 went to Boston as district sales manager. His ability proved, Mr. Burnell continued to rise rapidly and it wasn't long before he was recognized as one of the ablest of the company's executives.

LONG recognized as one of the country's leading industrialists, Tom M. Girdler, '01, took time off last month from his duties as Chairman of the Board of Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft companies to be principal speaker at the fifty-sixth annual banquet in Los Angeles of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity. An active Beta in his undergraduate days industrialist Girdler gave one of his usually inspiring addresses, and then posed with Billy Mills, Syracuse alumnus, and acting president of the fraternity in that area.

DIRECTOR of research and development for the Rogers-Diesel and Aircraft Corporation, Allison L. Bayles, '25, was honored by 40 department heads of the concern when he discussed the future of diesel engines in aviation at a recent meeting of the Society of Automotive Engineers. Proof of his extensive research in the diesel field was apparent as Director Bayles pointed out the characteristics which airline engineers agree unanimously that airplanes and their power plants must have, and then showed how, with the exception of the weight factor, the compression ignition engine has already demonstrated its ability to meet these requirements. To solve the weight problem Mr. Bayles suggested (1) a merger of the Otto cycle and the compression ignition cycle, taking the best characteristics of each, or (2) a compression ignition engine departing from the conventional design. Only by treating the masses of air and combustion gases intelligently, he said, can an engine be developed which will run in repose.

THE election of Thomas Coyle, '09, chlorine products manager of the Electrochemicals Department of E.I. du Pont de Nemours & Company, to the presidency of the Compressed Gas Manufacturers Association, Inc., at the annual meeting in New York came as no surprise to those who know the background of this able alumnus. President in 1942-43, and did such outstanding work that his elevation to the presidency of the organization soon became a foregone conclusion.

OF INTEREST to many on the eastern seaboard a recent article, "Cities A Quarter Mile Down," written by Lehigh alumnus Frank J. G. Duck, '19, for the feature section of a metropolitan paper, gives a vivid description of underground life in Pennsylvania's famed anthracite coal fields, where approximately 60,000,000 tons of coal are mined annually from a producing area of 484 square miles. This tonnage, practically all of the hard coal produced in this country, provides heat from Maine to Virginia for some 6,000,000 homes housing 35,000,000 people, but according to Author Duck not one in ten realizes the magnitude of the underground chain which has developed in the coal regions during the past 135 years.

The Bulletin Board

With thirteen young reservists and less than 350 civilian students remaining on the campus at month's end Lehigh's undergraduate picture remained virtually unchanged from that of the preceding month . . . Extra-curricular activities have all but ceased, and only on the athletic front, where 79 boys are participating in baseball, track and tennis, is there any sign of life . . . Most undergraduates, confused by latest Selective Service edicts, realize that their college life is drawing to a close, and that within a few short months, they too will be joining the 2915 Lehigh men already in the armed services . . . In sympathy with student problems undergraduate Dean Congdon reaffirmed the University's decision to give drafted men blanket credit proportional to the time spent in class . . . and while such credits will probably not be honored at other schools, they will be "good currency here" . . .

The month's most important announcement released by Dr. Eugene G. Grace, '99, following a meeting of the Board of Trustees, gives administrative powers to a committee comprised of Deans Palmer, Carothers and Callen. (See page 1) . . . This triumvirate will handle University problems until such time as a new president is named . . .

Latest faculty members to leave . . . Dr. William A. McDonald, assistant professor of Latin, Dr. Robert F. McNerney, assistant professor of romance languages, Paul Hessemer, civil engineering instructor and Everett Jones, of the English department, have been employed by the Consolidated-Vultee Aircraft corporation . . . while ten of the fifteen military officers assigned to Lehigh under the AST program have also been transferred to other posts . . . and as the BULLETIN goes to press several other faculty members have indicated their intentions to take industrial positions for the duration . . . However, administration officials are certain that enough professors will remain to maintain Lehigh's high scholastic standards . . .

The number of new civilian students likely to enroll at Lehigh for the new term starting in June may reach 100 according to E. Kenneth Smiley, Admissions Director . . . Stressing the fact that this estimate is unreliable because of constantly changing conditions Director Smiley stated that 45 men have already made their initial deposit and that 55 others are being considered . . . Under existing government regulations approximately one-third of the June registrants will be able to remain for one semester . . . while one-half will be able to complete two semesters before going into the service . . .

Possibility that another contingent of Army Specialized Trainees may be sent to the campus on July 1 has been announced by President Williams . . . The exact number is not known, but campus rumor has it that the contingent will not exceed 250 men . . . Civilian leaders on the campus were honored this month at the traditional "Flagpole" exercises . . . Graduation for members of the 1944 class will be held June 18, and following the wartime custom both baccalaureate and commencement will be held on the same day . . . Dr. William Pearson Tolley, Chancellor of Syracuse University, will be the commencement speaker . . . Long a tradition on South Mountain the thirty-seventh annual Bach Festival was presented in Packer Chapel on May 19-20 . . . and, as usual, every seat in the chapel was filled . . .

Fundamentals of Planning

by

DR. WALTER S. LANDIS, '02

When Dr. Walter S. Landis, '02, vice-president of the war important American Cyanamid company and an alumnus trustee of the University, addressed a recent meeting of the Lehigh Valley Chapter of the American Chemical Society on the urgent necessity of winning a lasting peace, he created such a favorable impression that the Bulletin immediately decided to publish portions of his talk for the benefit of other alumni who are also concerned with the post-war years. Well aware that the war must first be won on the battle field, alumnus Landis, nationally known as a chemist and industrialist, makes no predictions for the future, but believes in planning.

DURING the past years more printed pages and more oratory and more discussion have been devoted to the subject of postwar planning than to almost any problem facing the American public in many years. One of the problems before us is just how to make a proper appraisal of this information.

First of all we face the problem of winning the war, and next of winning a lasting peace. Intimately related to this latter are the internal problems of returning to normal political and industrial life. Real postwar planning includes the winning of the peace as well as the re-establishment of normalcy.

We have both international and national problems confronting us. There is no absolute or sharp cleavage. For example, we have before us the problem of reconversion of industry. This problem originated only because there was a world war. Therefore, in any comprehensive national planning we should know if we must contemplate a third world war within a reasonable period of time. In other words, how far should we convert? What degree of victory will we have won in establishing the peace?

What kind of a politically-minded world will exist as a result of this peace? Will it resume international trade much as before the outbreak of the war? Will we be dealing with foreign individuals or will more or less of our trade be with socialistic foreign governments? Perhaps even we may be socialized. In which case the individual business concern will have no place.

Will we have some form of fiat international currency, or will we have stabilization and resumption of the gold standard? Will all of our trade be on a bilateral basis? These are really important problems to industry. Not all countries can build to make the vast number of products that are essential to their national existence. Therefore, export and interchange of many of these products will continue, at least on a diminishing volume. But under what auspices?

WARS are very costly adventures, when they were smaller and not quite so destructive and costly, the winning side counted on loot or reparations for paying the bill. But the modern war involves far greater costs than are available in the form of portable wealth. For thousands of years the world has used another method of paying the bill,—by devaluing its monetary units. Is that a situation that will follow this war? If it is, we will have higher postwar prices and higher postwar wages. We will point our technologic attention to those directions where these increased costs strike hardest. We will have to adapt the character of our goods to the new purchasing ability of our future customers.

Then having adjusted our internal economic situation, there arises the larger problem of international adjustment. Currencies must be stabilized in such relation that foreign trade can be resumed.

You can see that this planning that so many people think involves merely a survey of their facilities, a new stream-lined design, a rearrangement of some equipment, and the sending of a few salesmen on the road, really has some very complex aspects. The little shopkeeper around the corner need not trouble himself too much about whether or not there will be a Bancor or Unitas or some other international monetary unit, but those things are going to affect him because his shelves may carry goods of foreign origin. Of course, it will be much more serious with the larger corporations,—steel, copper, automobiles,—even the chemical business, for we do depend upon foreign raw materials and we do sell in foreign markets.

We cannot leave these broad matters solely to the politician. Most of them pick up a little psychology, just enough to understand that man is a lazy animal when it comes to thinking, and is easily misled by platitudes and promises. The great public has to be educated to the importance of these matters, and they in turn have to impress it upon their representatives and administrative officers in power. All of this must originate in small communities and gatherings, that is the local election district.

WHEN the German states were amalgamated into the German Empire, Bismarck pointed out that the new Empire was poor in raw materials, but possessed a richly endowed population, intelligent and highly skilled. He suggested that attention be paid to those industries which could utilize relatively cheap raw materials and convert them into the higher priced and complicated goods. He specifically emphasized the chemical industry as offering a very great opportunity in this direction. Germany became pre-eminent in the fine chemical field at the beginning of the present century, enjoying almost a complete monopoly of the world's trade. All this was lost in World War I, for countries found they could not be dependent upon foreign sources of supply that were likely to be cut off so readily. Without substitute for this lost portion of her economy, a new war was in the making. You either feed people or you fight them.

As a natural consequence World War II has occurred. There was never any mystery about it being under way for many years before 1939. It had to occur, for this lost trade in chemicals could not be restored. Every first-rate nation in the world established its own internal source of supply for these necessary materials, and they were going to protect these domestic sources to the limit of their ability.

I believe that Germany was almost, but not quite, certain that World War II would result in a quick victory. When this early victory did not materialize they turned back to their text of a decade previously and put into effect a plan which seems to have been engineered as an alternate to the complete military victory. This scheme involves wiping out of whole populations which might build a competitive Europe in the face of a defeated Germany; destruction of plants and properties, as well as the intelligentsia and a large part of the serviceable population. In the midst of such wreckage even a war-weakened Germany would be supreme, and could build anew the military machine, and then bring about World War III with still greater assurances of victory.

NOW what is going to be the answer? To me it poses the single largest problem to the framers of the peace. It must be solved in such way that Germany is not permitted to retain an economic advantage in any sense or form, otherwise it will mean a third European war within a short generation. Destruction of property has been serious in Germany, but not in any sense complete. She also has removed much equipment from neighboring countries and she can just as readily secrete this as she did vast amounts of armament after the last war and in spite of the treaties and the extremely amateurish controls exercised by the Allied Governments.

All this may seem a problem for great statesmen, and yet we seem willing to leave it to the petty politician who contributes nothing more than the desire to perpetuate himself in office for another term.

Away back, nearly a century and a half ago there was a very considerable revival of thinking along socialistic lines. What the individual really desires is the right to improve his skill and to benefit from his productivity and industry in the acquisition and possession of an estate.

The settlement of America was an outcome of this inborn desire for freedom, for those courageous individuals who first came over here were seeking relief from the tyrannies that surrounded them in the mother countries. It was but natural that this become the foundation stone of the new government in the New World. We Americans have had our lesser cycles, and have had to fight repeatedly against the encroachment on the freedom of the individual.

In the Old World, over the past 150 years, there has been growing a movement that was opposed to this idea of freedom of individual effort. This socialistic movement is founded upon a completely false doctrine. It promised all things to all men, and no one takes the time to analyze whether or not these promises could possibly be kept. It is a very potent force in America today.

THEREFORE, in any postwar planning of national character we should include in those plans combative measures against this false political doctrine. The first planning effort all of us should adapt in our program is to force a return to the principles of the Founding Fathers of this country, and fight for their re-establishment.

If we can win this domestic political victory over this imported socialism, then industry will be able to solve the great problem of postwar employment. There is a close relationship between the kind of government and the development of industry. The war has proven the American system over all others.

This subject of postwar employment is foremost in the minds of a great many people. There are many organizations devoting their whole attention to it. Unfortunately relatively few understand the fundamentals underlying employment. Actually you do not directly create real jobs. A direct approach leads only to leaf-raking with all its attendant evils.

What we want, of course, is a high level of employment but we can attain this only in a sound manner and to a permanent degree, if we can produce desirable goods and distribute the same cheaply enough so that people will want to buy. Then we have not only the jobs of manufacture but also the jobs of distribution, that is transportation, merchandising, financing and the corollaries of supplying the raw materials and of feeding the mass of workers.

The government has spent some 50 billion dollars on new plants. We know that large sums are represented in cantonments, airfields, warehouses, magazines, and the like. These have almost no utilitarian value. They should be scrapped at the earliest possible moment and the land restored to agriculture.

The government has built many shipyards with all the facilities that go with such construction, and far in excess of any possible needs for generations to come. Possibly some of these may be suitable for conversion, but the rest should be scrapped.

WE MUST remember that American industry has always kept abreast of all ordinary peacetime demands. In this normal development of industry, no industrialist ever considered locating in some of these areas where these war plants have been built.

The government has built many plants wholly for the production of munitions, explosives, loading plants, and the like. These should have been of temporary construction but unfortunately many of them were erected of very permanent materials and not at all warranted by the conditions. These plants should also be scrapped but a few of them might be reserved as arsenals.

There is still another type of plant, some of it financed by the government, some of it by private capital. These are units that have been incorporated within the areas of existing manufacturing plants. Some of the contracts provide for the reversion of the equipment to the government, in which case it shall be removed. Others provide for a preferred option whereby the privately owned unit can take them over at cost, less wear and tear. This class offers no particular problem since the disposition will rest largely in private hands. We can be assured that disposition of these units will not be to the disadvantage of private industry.

There is also another problem in the vast stocks of munitions, semi-finished products and raw materials.

"as a student and an academic colleague"

ON MARCH 23 Professor Benjamin LeRoy Miller passed away suddenly while at his office in the Geology Department in Williams Hall. "Benjy," as most Lehigh men called him, was an endeared friend—a veritable Mr. Chips—to hundreds of the Lehigh family during his career here, which began in 1907.

It was my good fortune to have been both a student and later an academic colleague of Dr. Miller. In both connections my contacts were more of the friendly extracurricular type, than as a major in his scientific field.

Seldom does a man combine both his life work and his hobbies to such a marked degree. He was an economic geologist of the first rank; a world traveller who could share his findings and pleasures in fascinating conversation or from the lecture platform; and a productive writer in both scientific and semipopular fields. When such outstanding talents are coupled with a warm personality which never lost the human touch, you have a summary of one of Lehigh's greatest characters.

Others will develop the complete story of Dr. Miller's geological interests. However, most of us are aware of his most important works. He was an authority on the geology of South America, particularly the countries of Chile, Bolivia, Peru and Brazil. This work resulted in numerous articles and an authoritative text "The Mineral Deposits of South America" (McGraw Hill, 1919). In addition he had made geological surveys and special studies in Kansas, Iowa, Maryland, Virginia, New Jersey, North Carolina and particularly in eastern Pennsylvania. Among his notable consulting projects was a report on the slides of the Panama Canal. He was a regular contributor to Mineral Industry, writing annual reports on graphite production. Many of his reports for the Pennsylvania Geological Survey were impressive books featuring history, and industrial production as well as regional geology. Especially able are his works on cement, limestone and lead and zinc ores of the Keystone State.

As a student I recall Benjy's keen

The current alumni fund campaign nears its end as Class Agents renew efforts for quota

BACK at the turn of the century when the stock market caved and took Lehigh University's investment income along with it, an alumnus Henry S. Drinker, '71, later to become President, saved the day. His successful appeal to the Pennsylvania State Legislature for funds to bolster Lehigh's tottering financial structure has become history.

Perhaps equally important to Henry Drinker's immediate success was his trail-blazing in the field of alumni responsibility. From that day, Lehigh men have willingly placed their time and money at the University's disposal when critical periods occurred in her development.

It is generally conceded that the years of World War II have brought the gravest days for Lehigh since Henry Drinker first stepped into the picture. With faculty rolls slashed as far as practicable (see green page) with student enrollment dropping daily, the new fiscal year beginning July 1 must be subject to deficit financing.

Meanwhile, in the four decades between Lehigh's two great crises, the little alumni body has grown to an approximate 10,000. Over half of the physical plant and the greater portion of her $7,000,000 endowment represent the graduate extension of Drinker's shadow through the guiding spirit of the late Walter Okeson.

More recently, Drinker's mantle has fallen upon the Council of Lehigh Class Agents and the officers of the classes whose Memorial Gift Insurance will begin to yield some $20,000 per year after 1958. In the last 10 years, the number of Lehigh men contributing "gifts to Lehigh" has increased five-fold.

With their current campaign heading into its closing period, Class Agents are still hampered in their appeal by the lack of definite figures on Lehigh's need. Indeed, months may pass before the exact extent of the anticipated deficit for the new fiscal year is known. Already, however, some classes are responding in proportions which show increased appreciation of the current picture.

TWO Class Agents have already exceeded their self-determined quotas for this campaign, these being the veteran and capable Walton Forstall of 1891 whose class has contributed $1,309 and a newcomer, W. E. Martin of 1927, with $372.

Leading the field in amounts contributed are J. B. Carlock, 1907 with $1,985 and Myrl Jacobs, 1910, with $1,799, while the class of 1889, under Agent Cornelius, has the top-ranking percentage of 85. Among "insurance" classes ('39-'43) the 1941 group, headed by Agent Ojserkis, leads with 38%.

Twenty-four classes have already topped their total contributions for the past year although only in the cases of 1927 and 1891 have they met their 1944 quotas. These classes are 1942, 1940, 1936, 1931, 1927, 1922, 1921, 1919, 1918, 1917, 1914, 1913, 1911, 1905, 1903, 1902, 1899, 1897, 1896, 1891 and 1890.

One difficult question posed by a conscientious class agent has probably come to the minds of other Lehigh men—"Just how is Lehigh spending our contributions?"

Even a complete answer would be so lengthy that the picture would become confusing. Since the last Funds campaign, which resulted in the renovation of the Armory as a dining hall, the Alumni Association has voted to turn over all Fund contributions to the University for general operation. It has been logical to do this, both because restrictions prevent further building and because the University urgently needed liquid funds.

To trace the spending of alumni donations by the University, however, would mean tracing a thousand transactions in maintenance, personnel and day-to-day operations. The best generalization is one previously made, that alumni contributions just equal the University's net surplus in operations for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1943. While it is only equitable to mention that the University might not have allowed its surplus to reach this low figure had it not been for alumni support, the point remains that such latitude will not be available under deficit financing.

IT IS EASIER to brief the allocation of the increased support from Lehigh men to the Alumni Association itself, for the publication of "Lehigh Passes in Review," the bi-weekly newsletter to alumni in the service, will cost close to $2,000 this year—an amount five times the current increase in dues payments.

Meanwhile the Student Grants fund, at $4,000 has more contributors than in the past year but lags $3,000 behind the '42-'43 figure due to unusual individual gifts in that year. Very much a part of the current Lehigh picture, in spite of a moratorium on actual awards for the present, the Grants fund has $11,000 invested in war bonds awaiting the war's end.

On May 1 with only some two months of the campaign available for solicitation, the cold fact remains that only $27,400 has been contributed—a total approximately $7,000 behind last year's figure and $13,000 behind the $40,000 goal which Class Agents have set for themselves. Not to be deprecated however is the fact that at this time the sharp upward curve of the contribution line has not been broken, setting all-time highs for annual giving and marking a total of $45,000 in all brackets of alumni contributions including dues, Bulletin subscriptions, student grants, and the fund itself.

The Current Standing of Class Campaigns

Here are the records as of May 1, 1944 in the Council of Class Agents' 1943-44 Alumni Fund Campaign. Figures indicate the percentage of men in each class who made a direct gift to Lehigh.

I have seen estimates that these may amount to as much as 60 billion dollars at the end of the war. The disposition of these government stores will exert great influence upon the ability of private industry to return to peacetime production, for if they are dumped on the market, employment will receive a serious reversal.

We must know what is planned for the disposition of these government owned stocks. They can wreck our free enterprise economy if not judiciously handled; may even be used for this very purpose.

Immediately ahead of us is the filling of the void in consumers goods, occasioned by restricted production of such materials. It is a very difficult problem to shut-down a war machine while the war is still in progress. It is not an insurmountable problem and a great deal of effective work can be done on it now so as to lighten the impact to the greatest possible extent, always keeping within safe military bounds.

ONE of the great difficulties in the way is the problem of politics. Local blocs and political pressure will be brought to bear upon every suggestion of curtailment. Only the most courageous statesmanship can solve this dilemma properly.

Postwar planning problems of domestic character, must recognize that there is a void of consumers goods, that there has been inadequate maintenance, and that there is conversion ahead in your plants. The people have a great deal of spending money, some 60 or 70 billion dollars and more in the making.

Now this combination is not new, in any sense. Industry has always faced a similar situation on a smaller scale. In this particular case we have the whole thing dumped in our laps at once and demanding quick solution. We have always had to plan for manufacture, for sales and for new products and new models and realignment of manufacturing operations. There really is nothing new except as to magnitude.

If we can draw from past history we know that wars are always paid by inflation. The price of gold has gone up. We can, therefore, feel rather certain that wages will be higher after the war than before. Raw materials will be higher and prices of finished goods will consequently be higher, with a tendency to drop as improved manufacturing methods come into play. We will direct our technology against the lines of highest cost and so bring them

Oldest Alumnus Dies

NINETY-SIX year old George Naugh McMullen, '70, Lehigh's oldest alumnus, and the third student to register when the University first opened on September 1, 1866, passed away April 17, at his home in West Pittston, Pa. Always an interested alumnus Mr. McMullen was proud of the fact that he was a member of the first class of 39 young men to enroll at Lehigh, and whenever the opportunity arose, he delighted in telling how he stood in line behind a son and nephew of founder Asa Packer on that long ago day when students were first admitted.

Possessed of a keen mind and a sense of humor which made him a favorite among his friends and young people, alumnus McMullen had a long and varied career as a chair car conductor on Lehigh Valley express trains, as a yardmaster, and also as an employee of the Exeter colliery, and the La Barre Printing company. At the age of 72 he returned to the campus in June 1920 for his fiftieth reunion, but failing health prohibited his return for his seventieth in 1940.

To the end he retained a lively interest in affairs about him, and only a few years ago he was guest of honor at a testimonial dinner given by the Lehigh Club of Northeast Pennsylvania. It was here that full honor was paid to one of Lehigh's first sons, and it was here that George Naugh McMullen told Lehigh men for the last time of his experiences as an undergraduate during the early years on South Mountain.

down. But this is only a temporary period. The real problem is to adjust ourselves to these new economic equilibria over the longer future.

There is a very close coordination between activity in the chemical industry and general business activity as represented for example in the Federal Reserve index. The chemical industry parallels the index to a remarkable degree of precision. My conclusion is that the manufacturing chemical industry as a whole, will average around 30 per cent above the 1939 production for the next several years after peace has permitted conversion.

AS TO PRICE, there seems to be wide difference of opinion. A survey of several hundred articles of every day consumption, leads to a conclusion that retail prices will average at least 30 per cent above 1939, and there are many cases where this will be 100 per cent increase.

Facing a tax bill, Federal, State and local, along precedented magnitude and probably amounting to some 40 billion dollars a year, our National income must be written up considerably above its present level. We must be prepared to create a higher price level so as to take care of this tax burden without crippling our economy. We will have international competition from countries in which the war has destroyed completely the past high standards of living.

It is rather difficult to sum up a subject of this magnitude. But I do want to bring one message to chemists and engineers. You have received the best education in your field of technology that the world can offer. You have been grounded in science. You know the analytical process of observing the facts, weighing the data, and reconciling the observations. This rigorous discipline of mind must not and cannot repose within the four walls of a laboratory or be enmeshed only in the production line. It is up to you to analyze and understand these great political and social movements, and to use your God-given faculties to spread the gospel of sound economics and sound government. It is your job to associate yourself with political parties and political movements, to visit and confer with your local political organizations. You must use your faculties to get this government of ours back on a sane basis, you owe this to the great sacrifices of the Founding Fathers who first showed the way.

This Month with the Lehigh Alumni Clubs

Central New Jersey Lehigh Club

One the most enthusiastic Central New Jersey Lehigh meetings in recent years was held April 18 at Trenton's Carteret Club when alumni in that area turned out en masse to hear Dr. Wray Congdon, Dean of Undergraduates, describe in detail the current campus picture. Paced by President J. H. "Pop" Pennington, '97, and Secretary Charles J. McCoy, Jr., '37, this spring meeting proved conclusively that war-harried alumni can still find time to be interested in their Alma Mater, and that, when given the chance, they still enjoy discussing the "good old days" when they were undergraduates.

Following an excellent roast beef dinner prepared by the Carteret chef, President Pennington read a recent Brown & White article indicating that Lehigh was still solvent, and that University facilities are still in good working order. With this as a keynote Dean Congdon summarized campus progress and problems since Pearl Harbor, discussed the sharp decline in enrollment, and then told of steps being taken to preserve the future of a great University. So impressive was the Dean's talk that he was deluged with questions by alumni whose interest had been aroused by his remarks.

Proof that the Lehigh spirit has been carried all over the world by fighting alumni was then presented by Len Schick, ALUMNI BULLETIN Editor, who recounted numerous anecdotes about the men in the service, and told of the desire of alumni to attend a gigantic post-war reunion which will see all classes returning to South Mountain at the same time.

In conclusion, he introduced Dr. R. D. Billinger, '21, Associate Professor of Chemistry, who has been appointed Acting Alumni Secretary, to replace Robert F. Herrick, '34, Executive Secretary, and Schick when these two go into the Armed Service in the near future. Billinger, attending his first alumni meeting as an alumni representative, entertained the gathering by producing an invisible message from "South Mountain's Great Stone Face." Made legible by the application of heat, "and something from a bottle" the message addressed to "Pop" and members of the Club was a novel climax to an already successful meeting.

Lehigh Home Club

More than forty alumni of Bethlehem and vicinity attended the third monthly luncheon meeting of the Lehigh Home club held May 1 in the University Room of the Hotel Bethlehem. Arranged by President Jack K. Conneen, '30, and Secretary Ned Martin, '27, these monthly luncheon sessions have been very successful, and will be continued throughout the summer months.

Starting promptly at 12.15 p.m. the meetings are strictly informal in nature, and end at 1.00 p.m. so that alumni can return to their place of business on time. They are open to all Lehigh alumni and friends of the University who may care to attend.

Principal speaker at the May meeting Dean A. C. Callen, '09, head of the Engineering college, and a member of the administrative committee appointed last month by the Board of Trustees to handle University business until a new president is appointed, gave a ten minute review of undergraduate enrollment, general faculty changes, and current problems on the campus. Dean Callen's outlook for the future was one of hope and an almost certain prediction that Lehigh will carry on with limited personnel of students and faculty.

interest in religious conferences, Y. M. C. A. and Tau Beta Pi. In the latter connection he was the connecting link with Dr. Edward Higginson Williams, founder of Tau Beta Pi (at Lehigh in 1885). Dr. Williams—donor of "Bill Hall"—had been Professor of Mining Engineering and Geology (1881-1902) and returned annually, after his retirement, to lecture on glacial geology.

IN HIS role as counselor to student organizations Dr. Miller exerted a strong influence—both by word and example. A Tau Beta Pi smoker or dinner was scarcely complete without the cheerful presence and brief address by Benjy, who himself epitomized the versatile engineer. His plea was for character and breadth of interest coupled with a high degree of intellectual attainment. At his instigation the memorial plaque to Dr. E. H. Williams was placed on a large rock upon the terrace in front of Williams Hall. His student friends were always appreciative of his friendship and advice, as evidenced by numerous oral and written manifestations. A handsome desk pen and holder was presented to him several years ago by his brothers in Tau Beta Pi.

Like all good geologists Dr. Miller, in his prime, could outwalk most of his students. I accompanied him occasionally—either on student trips or on some special consulting job. Well do I recall the heavy pack of lead and zinc ore which we collected in the Phoenixville region back in 1919. It was my privilege to relive early experiences by traveling with him again for three days this past summer when he was revisiting many of the limestone and dolomite deposits of Chester County. The cover picture on this issue of the BULLETIN was made from a kodachrome which I snapped on this trip. Typical of outdoor men he had a wide knowledge of folklore and wild life. His love of both man and nature gave him a rich philosophy—even a poetic touch. A trip with him was a real experience which gave one an exalted feeling.

Among other academic duties, besides his regular work in teaching and directing courses in geology, Professor Miller was in charge of the meteorological observations conducted at Lehigh University. He taught meteorology and directed the recording of daily reports which were made by assistants.

Dr. Miller served with distinction on various faculty committees and was extremely cooperative and helpful in arranging the services of his Department to fit into the general University program. A tribute to his opinion was the fact that he and the late Professor Preston A. Lambert, '83, were selected to interview Dr. Charles Russ Richards as a possible candidate to succeed Dr. H. S. Drinker as President of the University. The wise choice was confirmed by Dr. Richards' subsequent record as President from 1922 to 1935.

DR. MILLER'S wider travels in the past ten years through Europe, Asia and Central America made him an observer and writer on world politics. His lectures on these experiences were welcomed by civic and university audiences.

Although due for retirement he took on a strenuous summer program of work on the Princeton Campus, as well as doing private consulting work during this past summer. He was able to combine a month of travel and work in Florida this winter, from which he returned, several weeks before his death, looking hale and happy. His death came as a shock to everyone—for he was seventy years young, and he literally "died with his boots on."

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Otto H. Spillman and a son, Dr. Ralph LeRoy Miller. The latter, also a geologist, will continue in his father's tradition. All Lehigh men and a host of other friends join in sincere tribute to one of the grand old guard. His successor is one of his former able students, Dr. Bradford Willard, '21, who after completing his doctorate work at Harvard was on the staff of the Pennsylvania State Geological Survey until he returned to Lehigh in 1939.

Lehigh's Roll of Honor

PROUD of the hundreds of Lehigh sons in the armed services, the BULLETIN takes pleasure in publishing their names and approximate addresses in this issue, a copy of which will be sent to all alumni in uniform. Because of strict military censorship, it is impossible to publish all addresses in full, but classmates interested in corresponding with each other may secure full addresses by writing to the alumni office.

Published by classes this list contains the names of 2088 men who have graduated from the University, but because of space limitations, it does not include the names of 847 undergraduates who are also serving their country. Their record will be published in a future issue of the magazine.

Now is the time to think about Molybdenum...

Taylor and White's great discovery which made possible high speed cutting was the greatest single development to help make mass production possible. The steel developed, commonly known as 18-4-1, served industry faithfully for over thirty years without a serious competitor.

In the early 1930's the first molybdenum high speed steels were used on a substantial commercial basis and, before the Second World War, about 25% of all tungsten high speed steels had already been replaced by molybdenum high speed steels on merit. This steady progress of logical replacement of the tungsten steels was interrupted by the war because of the tungsten shortage, when many industrial plants were forced to a sudden change to molybdenum steels.

Because of the stress of war production many concerns have never had an opportunity to satisfy themselves thoroughly as to the comparative merits of the molybdenum high speed steels. For those, in this category, who are inclined to return to the tungsten steels, we suggest a serious consideration of the following facts—molybdenum high speed steels perform as well as, or better than, tungsten steels—and they cost less.

FOLLOWING THE Lives OF LEHIGH MEN

Class of 1889

GEORGE W. HARRIS

12 Holland Terrace, Montclair, N.J.

Time again for some more tales about what the '89 "boys" have been doing. Talking about "boys," O. W. Holmes once said, at a reunion of his classmates, well along in years, "We are twenty tonight—who says we are more." Furthermore, his son, Justice Holmes, remarked in his 90's, "Oh to be 80 again." And we fellows are still in our 70's—some young in thought, at least, judging from classmates' fine letters. You know a man is often said to be as he thinks he is.

JUSTICE C. CORNELIUS
"the other Cornelii"

But regarding our classmates. In this column is shown a picture of the other Cornelii, Justice C. "Jut" Cornelius, whose brother "Billy's" picture was given in the '89 class letter of the December-January Bulletin. Justice Cornelius was active in football, playing as captain and quarterback on a preparatory school team; at the University he was quarterback on his class team and substitute quarterback in 1885 on the University team.

"Jut" had a well trained tenor voice, singing in the Chapel choir and in the Glee Club at Lehigh. It was indeed a treat to hear him sing a solo at our 50th reunion. He graduated as a C. E., was with the Wharton people for many years, first in Philadelphia and later in their Car and Construction plant in Easton, Pa. Though living in Lafayette territory, he must have had a quiet satisfaction in having his residence at 821 LEHIGH Street, where he still resides, though lately retired. His married daughter, Mrs. E. N. Harris, and her family live out on the Pacific coast.

In a truly cooperative spirit, Justice Cornelius kindly sent in some newspaper clippings which enable your correspondent to give the following news items about our outstanding classmate, Judge Charles L. Brown, of Philadelphia. The Sons of the American Revolution, on February 22, '44, awarded its Gold Medal of Good Citizenship to Judge Brown, President of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, for his leadership in social and juvenile betterment, a distinction which was, at different times, awarded to other prominent Pennsylvania citizens.

A fine letter came in from "Bert" Carson. Some interesting excerpts follow: "I am glad to say I am well and happy. My daughter and her two little children are with me; her husband is a surgeon in the Canadian Navy and has been on a destroyer on the North Atlantic convoy patrol all winter. My son is a safety engineer in charge of the safety department in a big iron plant in Wisconsin."

"As for my activities—those are the things that keep me young. I am a chairman or director or trustee on about eight different agencies—all more or less connected with the welfare of our community. So, while I am retired, I still have lots to do."

McChurg has written of good health and of a kind winter up to February 3 in Sewickley, Pa. Your correspondent, in late March when this is written, is preparing to move North, after one of the pleasantest of the six winters he has spent in Florida. Some weeks ago in the Delray ocean pavilion he met a member of '89, for which class '91 always has a warm feeling, for as juniors they cared for us in our timid freshman days. Due to the ravages of old age the name cannot be recalled now with certainty.

Wintering with me were two Dartmouth men. From them I learned that Dartmouth in 1943, with 14,000 living graduates (about twice the Lehigh figure) had tried for $200,000 and raised $245,000! This from 12,279 contributors or 86 per cent of the possible givers. We like to praise Lehigh loyalty, but the Dartmouth variety is something else again, and at least one Lehigh face is red.

Since no news items come my way from members of '92, and I can't manufacture any fit to print, this little column might as well be left out. It's a lamentable commentary on both you and me that the only note on '92 that I have to report is the death of George Case on March 11. Bill Brady informed me of the sad news.

Well, I think most of the members of our class, though seemingly numb, have noticed that spring is making a desperate effort to put on its new uniform.

And that, since I'm in no letter-writing mood myself, is that.

GEORGE E. SHEPHERD

The deaths of Mathias H. Holz at Philadelphia on January 5, and Stephen C. Potts, both '94 men, are noted in the March Bulletin. Where Potts died is not stated, nor do I recall where he lived. "Harry" Holz was a close friend of Jules Neufeld and both entered Lehigh from the Central High School of Philadelphia. Frank Glading was another '94 man who came from the same school.

While, officially, reunions are off for the duration, there is nothing to prevent one from returning to the old college as an individual. And it appears many are planning to do this very thing. In fact, were this not so, the crowd at Commencement exercises could probably be placed in the first few rows in the Packer Memorial Church.

Fifty-year reunions, like golden weddings, first babies, etc., do not come very often. Unless this is realized and proper action taken at the time, you are not going to derive much pleasure from cogitating later on what you should have done. In the words of the last few lines of the well-known poem "Opportunity":

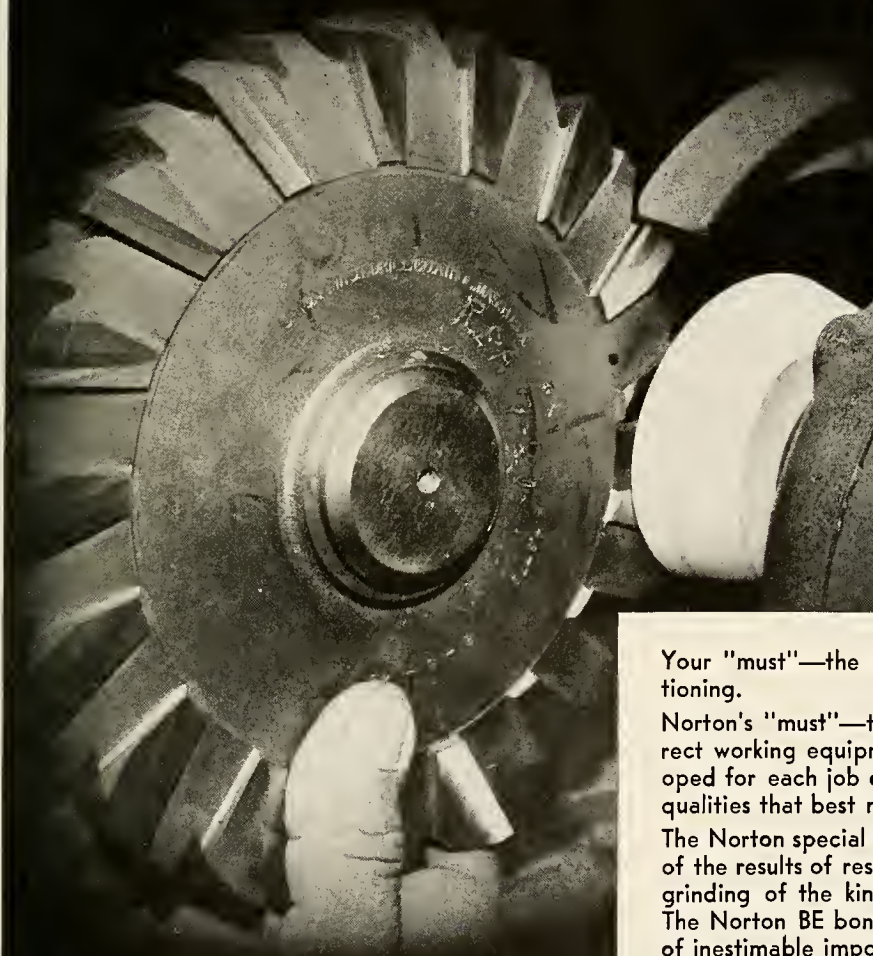

*"But those who doubt or hesitate,
Condemned to failure, penury and woe,
Seek me in vain and uselessly implore—
I answer not, and I return no more"*

And return no more is what a lot of us will do who figure we will come "some other time."

ed, it is my plan to head for Bethlehem in June. And as I happen to know of at least several other '94 men who plan to be there at that time, there is not the slightest doubt that although the meeting may not officially be dubbed a reunion, it will certainly exceed in interest and inspiration any and all the previous gatherings which the class has held. Better five or six fellows who meet because of a bond drawing them together than a gathering of twenty-five who come because it is the thing they are supposed to do.

If you have any comments to make, or should you find yourself unable to resist the urge to climb all over me because of these suggestions, you will find the address at the head of this column—but not the address as stated erroneously in the March Bulletin.

Since no volunteers have presented themselves to take over this column for this issue and no communications have been received, giving any items of interest about any members of the class, in order to keep this column active your correspondent will make a few observations on some of the problems that affect the routine of existence in this circumscribed world.

Speaking of books, one solace of the human mind, we are being deluged with books on all phases of the war, the pre-war era and the post-war era. By reason of our closeness to these great events and the tendency of some of these writers to dramatize the ordinary, and others to express preconceived and prejudiced theories, these books, with a few notable exceptions, constitute a rather poor literary diet. I believe that the reader of a good newspaper will, for some time to come, have all the known facts that can be digested before the final act in each scene. As for newspapers, I hereby confess a weakness for the New York Times.

A number of non-war books have appeared recently, whose reading tends greatly to restore one's mental equilibrium in this trying period. Of this class, the following have recently passed across your correspondent's table. "A Surgeon's World" by Thorek, is an interesting biography of a great surgeon, in which he discusses many subjects, some of which are not adapted to everyday dinner conversation. "G. B. S. A Portraiture of George Bernard Shaw" by Pearson, "The Duke, The Life of Wellington," by Aldington, and "Victor Hugo" by Josephson, are all good biographies. "Lee's Lieutenants" (Second Volume), by Freeman, is in line with great traditions of Freeman's life of Lee. "Persons and Places," by Santayana, is an autobiography in which this well known philosopher of our own generation outlines his interesting philosophy of life and of the general cosmos.

We trust that books of this type will not be crowded out by the exigencies of the war.

In getting around we have found a general complaint about the scarcity of bourbon. As you all know, bourbon is the basis of an "Old Fashioned," which was always a favorite of the class of '95, and which in general is used to relieve the locked-up stresses engendered by a complex civilization, especially in adapting itself to a war-torn world. One Knight of the White Coat, when asked for some bourbon, was heard to say, "I have none and, if I did have any, I would save it for blood transfusions." We hope for better days.

Now if none of you will write me or agree to take over this column, you see what you are going to get. Can you take it? If not, you had better seize your pens immediately, and write something interesting and worth while for this column.

Class of 1896

WILLIAM S. AYARS

269 Leonia Ave., Leonia, N.J.

Today is Sunday, 23 April 1944. Whether I "owe" a contribution to the Bulletin I really don't know. I did have a sort of schedule, giving sending date and mailing date, but these have been sadly disarranged. However, today is wet and otherwise unfitted for the garden work I had planned to do, and a recent circular letter from Bob Laramy has suggested that I might as well try to write some sort of a column.

The circular letter I presume has reached all of you and I wonder if it surprised and disappointed you as much as it did me. Not that the letter, as a letter, wasn't a good letter; it was a very good one. It was the information conveyed that was surprising and disappointing. To quote: "Yours is one of the 69 names on our Alumni Roll. This year 29 are Life Members or have paid their dues. Four gave towards the Student Grants. Eleven have contributed to the Alumni Fund—a total of $622. Seventeen receive the Alumni Bulletin. Of the 69 more than half have had no relation to the Alumni Association this year."

Let's analyze those figures a little; the 29 who are paid up in dues make up 42% of the 69; the 17 who subscribe to the Bulletin are 24.6%; the 11 contributors to the Alumni Fund are 16%; the four who gave to the Student Grants fund are 5.8%. I confess that I don't feel much chagrin over the poor showing for Student Grants, for I will never get over the feeling that Lehigh does not exist for the purpose of turning out men "strong from the neck down." But I do feel rather ashamed of the record on Alumni Dues, subscribers to the Bulletin and Gifts to the Alumni Fund. We who struggle to turn in a monthly class column naturally do not expect much of an audience, but it certainly is discouraging to feel that the most we can expect, from our own class, is seventeen readers. It tempts me "to chuck the whole business"—but I guess I can hang on for the present. However, since some 75% of the class apparently do not see the Bulletin, there seems to be little use in making any appeal to them through this column. But I can and do say to this majority of indifferent, careless and disloyal '96-ers, "You ought to be damn well ashamed of yourselves!" I was tempted in the above string of unpleasant adjectives to add "stingy," but I do not think there is any stinginess about it. Neither do I feel that the delinquents are, most of them, in straitened financial circumstances. Thus this total lack of sending in the really trifling amounts needed, per man, to put '96 on a showing at least as good as '95 or '97 cannot be charged to either poverty or stinginess; it is, I am convinced, just plain indifference, carelessness, disloyalty—and, on second thought, laziness, and in many cases, procrastination. That few of you rarely, and most of you never write to me, I can stand, for I have become hardened to it. Never the less it is, in many cases, just plain rudeness and discourtesy, for quite a few of you owe me personal letters at this present moment. So far as I know, these "epistolary debtors" are all alive and presumably have the funds needed for stamps and stationery.

In a personal message along with the form letter, Bob makes a very good suggestion; that we, at least, the B.E.Y.C., make an effort to get together again this June—"and that if possible no one should be responsible to be host." I think that all the B.E.Y.C. members are on the list of those who receive the Bulletin, and we'd be glad to hear from them on this suggestion.

The original notice of copy due, issued last September, had that for the May Bulletin scheduled for April 3. As I did not discover this until April 5 I gleefully patted my back and thought that I had escaped the terrifying ordeal of filing copy. Well, there came along another letter fixing April 19 as the fatal day (Selective Service stuff—off again, on again, etc.). So, I am caught again and hereby succumb.

Here is an excerpt from a letter from good old Elliott, whom I have not seen for forty-seven years, a period twice as long as was our age when at Lehigh, that part of our life when we felt so sorry for the world and vowed to correct all its evils, ignorance, and shortcomings as soon as we graduated. What a laugh the world has had for forty-seven years!

Elliott says in part: "On July 15 I retired from active duty, having been with the company almost continually for about forty-five years. I think I have been in the saddle long enough to deserve a little rest and relief from constant active duty."

Livingston writes me that the farm is the bunk. The best thing being a nice cabin in the woods, so far in that a locomotive whistle can not be heard. I think that he has something there but I

EVEN we know only a little of what you might do with it... yet. Trimethylcyclohexanol (you pronounce it try-'meth'-il-sy'-klo-hex'-an-oh!) is a new industrial chemical by CARBIDE AND CARBON CHEMICALS CORPORATION...made with atoms obtained from common substances, rearranged into molecules that are not known to exist in nature.

What's this new synthetic organic chemical good for? No one yet knows all of the useful things it might be made to do. If you are technically minded you'll find some of the facts so far discovered in the italicized paragraph at the right. Whatever your interest, you will be glad to know that this new chemical has potential uses in the making of such things as medicines, plastics, lubricating oils, and adhesives.

In their service to industry as incubators for raw materials, the laboratories of this Unit of UCC are continually developing such new chemicals. An almost predictable percentage of them prove to be extremely valuable. Out of hundreds already developed have come scores from which scientists in industry have developed useful products of many kinds.

Some of the chemicals are used to make superior anti-freezes. Others are raw materials for quantity production of vitamins and life-saving drugs. Still others make possible improved cosmetics, plastics, textiles, photofilm, insect repellents, anesthetics...and hundreds of things of benefit to you in your daily life.

Through continuing research which is developing new materials out of common substances, CARBIDE AND CARBON CHEMICALS CORPORATION is helping to make many things more plentiful or more useful. And the research of this one Unit...in that field which often must appear to the layman as "unknown chemicals"...gives you an idea of what the combined research of all UCC Units in many basic fields means to you.

As Trimethylcyclohexanol is one of the newest additions to this family of synthetic organic chemicals, its story is still incomplete.

It is an alcohol with a high boiling point (388° Fahrenheit). At room temperature, it is a white solid with an odor like menthol. It dissolves in other alcohols, gasoline, benzene, ethers, and vegetable oils like linseed oil, but does not dissolve in water. It can be supplied in carload quantities if and when the need arises.

Technically minded men and women can obtain information on the properties and uses of more than 160 other products of Carbide and Carbon Chemicals Corporation by writing for Booklet P-5, "Synthetic Organic Chemicals."

Fifty years ago we were struggling with the entrance exams for Lehigh. Six years ago Victor Records wrote up a record of the class which follows, and to which he appends the data bringing it up to date:

"On Wednesday afternoon, September 12, 1894, our class entered Lehigh with four men and 107 boys. Forty-four of them received their degrees on University day, 1898. Twenty-eight of those graduates, two more who completed their courses later, and forty-three non-graduates are the living charter members of Ninety-eight. The class membership was increased by forty-four. Of the latter thirteen received their degrees June, 1898. Nine of those graduates, five more who completed their courses later, and one non-graduate are the living recruits of our class. Twenty-five fellows left us to be members of other classes. The remaining 130 were Ninety-Eight's enrollment. Sixty-eight were graduates and sixty-two non-graduates

"Eighty-eight of our men are reported living, although no address is known for eleven of them; forty-four are graduates and forty-four non-graduates. Notice that number forty-four. It started with us in the fall of '94, in the football season, when "Four, Eleven, Forty-Four" was the signal for our Filtz, the Varsity full-back, to go through Lafayette's center.

"During the past six years the following changes are recorded: Charter members who received degrees in 1898 and have died—six. Charter members, non-graduates, who have died—seven. Added members who have died—three. Charter members who went to other classes and have died—two. Charter members who received their degree later, but did not transfer from Ninety-Eight—one."

In closing his reclassification of the nineteen who have died in the past six years Victor adds, "Please bow your head for one minute of silent prayer for them." Let's do it.

Replies are coming in to our recent letter to class members asking for information on the activities of their children in World War II. I am pleased to set forth the following received to date (April 10, 1944):

L. M. Allyn, who left us during second term freshman to take up the study of medicine at the University of Pennsylvania and who has been practicing medicine in Mystic, Conn. for many years, advises that his daughter, Lucia G. Allyn, is a graduate of Northfield Seminary 1931, Wellesley College 1935, Yale University School of Nursing 1938 and is a Connecticut Registered Nurse 1938. She has the following degrees: A.B., M.N., R.N. and is a first lieutenant, U. S. Army Nurse, on duty at the 39th General Hospital.

"Blondie" Donaldson's son, Ethelbert Talbot Donaldson, A.B. Harvard 1933 and Ph. D. Yale 1943, is a second lieutenant in the U. S. Army Air Corps, Patterson Field, Dayton, Ohio.

"Brick" Gearhart has two sons in service as follows: 1st Lt. Foster A. Gearhart, Lehigh 1934, B.S., Coast Artillery Anti Aircraft, and Major Thomas A. Gearhart, B.A., Lehigh 1936, in the U. S. Infantry.

Lonie Krause advises that his son, L. A. Krause, Jr., is T-4, in A Battery, A.A. S.R., Camp Davis, N. C. This lad completed his prep course at Perkiomen Seminary before being tagged by Uncle Sam.

From his mountain home in Ashland, Pa., "Laubie" Laubenstein informs us that his Lehigh ('39) son is Captain Raymond P. Laubenstein, Ordnance Dept., Frankford Arsenal, Philadelphia, Pa.

"Goo" Underhill tells us that he has two sons in the service: Pfc. David T. E. Underhill, William & Mary, '36, is with the A.A.C., somewhere in Burma, and 2d Lt John G. Underhill, Princeton '44, is in the A.A.C., Macon, Ga.

Others will be added to this list as returns come in. Already this inquiry has been the means of listing two additional men on the Lehigh Honor Roll, and in giving the Alumni Office two changes in rank. It is to be hoped that all 1901 men will aid in completing this undertaking. Our thanks to all who have already replied.

Professor Diefenderfer just wrote, the other day, a very interesting letter to me. Dief enclosed what some of us consider the best likeness of J. Brooks Wright on record. I send it to you.

Brooks has been and is serving his day and generation out in that great country, Oklahoma. From 1020 South Ninth St., McAlester, he writes: "I received your letter and also the statement showing that I had paid my subscription to the Bulletin."

Speaking about the occasional difficulty of getting news, he says: "I figure that it might be because too many were like me, too busy rearing a family. An elderly man, when I asked what he was doing, replied that he was doing nothing but raising a family.

So you see we are in the war 100%. --- I sent a copy of my last photograph to Diefenderfer on or about our 40th reunion. I sent it to him for the class. I haven't had any picture taken since then.

Some one dropped a hint that I was not saying anything about myself and concluded "you are interested about us—loosen up yourself." Well, Wright's good family brings to mind my five daughters, four of them living (Mary died at nineteen); our son Bill is 26, and is in the army in London. His mother died some years ago.

I saw Heim at the Bellevue-Stratford Wednesday 15, and Walter Johns. We had an interesting time discussing our youngsters who are in college and OLD LEHIGH. Heim came to town on his trip around to New York City on his way home to Kane. All important global strategy and Lehigh were fully discussed.

Thanks to Dick Cunningham and Bob Herrick, there are a number of items to pass on to you in the class columns this month.

Although you will see it elsewhere, it is fitting to pay tribute in this column to Charlie Lattig, who passed away on the first of March in Columbus, Ohio. Charlie was with the Jeffry Manufacturing Company. The last time I saw him he appeared to be very happy in his job and was doing some interesting work.

Dick gave me a memorandum stating that "Cute Cunningham died in Chicago some time in February." Although he did not graduate with our class he was one of us for a time, so it is fitting that we pay tribute to him also.

A letter from Court Carrier has been passed on to me as a news item. Court's wife fell on the ice during January and broke her hip. Since his letter is dated March 20 it can be assumed that there is no serious result, so we may rejoice with Court. His letter says, "I am with Anaconda Wire and Cable making ship-board cable for the Navy, and Courtland III, '39, is a captain with the 8th Air Force somewhere in England. Mrs. Carrier has had a part in the defense service and we all hope that our seven grandchildren will not have any such future duties, particularly as five of them are boys."

Ray Hunt writes from Charlottesville, Va., that he frequently sees Ernest Jordan who "is Dean of the School of Medicine at the University of Virginia. He has written a number of books and made a very splendid record professionally as well as in the hearts of his students." This doesn't tell you much about Ray but at least he has gone on record as being on the job.

Dick Cunningham, as you know, is on the campus, as are also George Beck and Andy Becker. Occasionally I see them but right now I know of no items of particular interest about them to pass on to you.

Al Glancy is back in the hospital again for the completion of his campaign. I can't publish all of his report as I might be disclosing military secrets (or others). However, I shall give you one paragraph as follows:

"The examining surgeon will search for evidence of cystic glandular hyperplasia in correlation with the physiological vesical neck obstruction which may offer compensation for pathological changes in bladder trabeculations which, if too strongly for hypertonic myogenic tone, may cause the cuboidal epithelium to combine with the acini exposed in the fossa and that, of course, as you so well know, would lead us into a suprapubic enucleation."

The only reason I did not have some kind of a report in the last issue of the Alumni Bulletin is because I claim I did not get the usual reminder from the alumni office. I am informed, however, that yesterday was the deadline and I have mighty little news to transmit.

I quote the following from a letter I received some time back from Bill Cram, whose address is 231 West Paces Ferry Road, Atlanta, Ga.

"There is very little information here to interest you. Our town has really gone all-out for the war program. Never much of a manufacturing town but a distributing center, it has gone all out for manufacturing, and in a very short time this will be a critical area so far as manpower shortage is concerned. You would be surprised at the number of Southern women who are in industry today, and they are all doing grand jobs. We have added, since the war, electric steel furnace, shell plants, machine tool manufacturers, airplane manufacturer, and small parts contractors for both the Army and the Navy, although the Navy seems to predominate in this area. The larger companies like Ford, Firestone, Goodyear, etc., have placed several of their sub-assembly plants in this area. This, together with the fact that the Southern boys haven't got any better sense than to go into the Army—having two commissioned officers in the Air Corps, I should talk—helps to place us in this critical situation so far as manpower is concerned.

"The above is an excuse for the old head, who should be at home by the fireplace with slippers and smoking jacket, to get back into the fray again, and we are all getting a big kick out of it."

Andrew Mack also wrote to me March 24. Among other things he says that Walter Cunningham died some time in January. He has had dinner several times with Frank Sinn, who passes through Pittsburgh quite frequently. He also says, "It is generally understood, I believe, that there will be no class reunions in 1944, which means that we will have to pass up our 40th reunion. I am sorry that such is the case. My understanding is that all classes are foregoing reunions and that when the war is over we will have one big reunion of every one. I think it is not necessary to notify the class to this effect as I believe every one knows it.

"Should my business take me through or near Bethlehem I will certainly look you up."

I have sent out some letters to ten of you men and I hope I will have more news for the next issue of the Bulletin.

Here is a note from Ted Schwarze to Bill Estes:

It may seem to some as though a Bulletin subscription were helping the 'Good Mother,' but to me it looks more like the gratifying of selfishness. If there is ever a regular visitor to my place of being I do not wish to miss the visits of the Bulletin, even though there is a chronic dearth of news concerning the boys of Nought Five. The environment of youth is supposed to be the best of spiritual memories. If that is so, a subscription to the Bulletin as a representative of the environment of youth should be a vital necessity. . . .

"To see how well you are wearing your toga will be one of the incentives to getting back for the 'Fortieth' next year. If matters continue as they are now going, you will see a more virile specimen of the genus homo sapiens than you did the last time we got together. Due precautions must, of course, be taken but I am feeling remarkably well for one who has a coronary thrombus. You may even see some more hair on my head—Georgia really has wonderful climate!"

One month has elapsed since your C. C. accepted his assignment, and no letters from classmates to date. However, a very pleasant chat was had on the train the other day with "Al" Spaeth, one of our famous reunion twins of Spaeth and Schafer. Al is assistant engineer for the Reading Railroad with his office in Philadelphia and home at Lansdale, Pa. Al reports that his reunion twin "Schaf" has discontinued his connection with the Reading for the duration and his last word from him indicated he is now overseas. Our latest address is: Maj. R. H. Schafer, 712 Ry. Operating Bn., New Orleans, La. We also understand that Col. Frank T. Leilich is in the Corps of Engineers and is somewhere overseas.

Our regular army Col. Dan H. Torrey's last known address is Hdqs. Second Corps Area, Governors Island, N. Y. It is believed that Dan had the pleasure of vigorously denying a couple of years ago his "death" as reported in an issue of the Bulletin then.

Following is a list of classmates who, last reports indicate, are in Washington helping in some form or other in the war effort: Carl A. Baer, Oram Fulton, Ike Gible, Lewis Heck, George Roberts, Wilson D. Sanderson. It will be very nice if the above classmates will furnish their official status and address and thus provide the opportunity for other members of the class to call on them and possibly get some much needed assistance in their business dealings with the Government. Anyone having any food or beverage troubles are referred for solution to "Sandy," who can be reached at the Beverage Section, Food and Food Products Branch, O.P.A.

It is with pride that we report a recent Newcomen address in Baltimore entitled "From the Potomac to the Thames—being the progress of James Rumsey (1743-1792)," by our Classmate Thomson King, 216 Loughwood Rd., Baltimore, Md.

Bob Watson, 1913 class agent, recently sent out a class letter outlining very clearly the financial pinch to be experienced by the University during the coming summer and the following scholastic year. I hope all of you read it carefully, but just in case you didn't read it but filed it instead, I suggest you dig it up and give it a careful once-over.

Incidentally, Bob added a postscript on the copy which he sent to me stating that he had seen C. B. Rafter recently. Bob states that "Casey" has fallen away to a mere 236 pounds and aside from having to drag around that amount of avoirdupois, he is suffering from good health.

The alumni office has forwarded a new address for Herbert Lamb: Box 599, Oroville, Calif.

JOHN O. LIEBIG

In order to be of help to those mislaying their HELP WANTED cards, we are herewith reproducing a reasonable facsimile of same for "youall:"

(1) Birthdate complete. Some are ashamed of their age. (2) Marital status. Most of the married boys report that they are still married to the same wife. (3) Sons and daughters in service. Details acceptable. (4) Children. No. of boys and No. of girls. Details again are acceptable. (5) Business affiliations. As you wish. (6) Any information that you care to dispense with. When returns are more or less complete, it will be time to start all over again, but look at all the fun we have in catching up with the fellows that like to be hard to get.

We have some new addresses of Our Servicemen. These fellows are deserving of letters from each and every one of you. Who knows, your letter may help to win this war.

Col. T. G. Shaffer, A.P.O. 7474, % Postmaster, New York City. "Tommy" is somewhere in Asia and wishes to be remembered and asks us to keep things going. Are you being fair to "Tommy" if you don't write at least to him?

Here's another serviceman overseas. Col. H. D. Jay, A.P.O. 464, % Postmaster, New York. "Hal" also took enough time out to advise us that he has two sons-in-law in the service, both boys graduates of West Point. His daughters are Mrs. George S. Eckhardt and Mrs. Wm. L. Starnes, Jr. One granddaughter, Jay Eckhardt, one year old.

Just to show you that wonders never cease, we take pleasure in presenting our latest Papa, Bob Laedlein. To Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Laedlein, a daughter, Barbara Dunn, born September 14, 1943. (Now he tells us. See what we mean? You fellows are holding out on the class. I could say something here to Bob but it would only lead to bloodshed.) Certainly you may hold the 1914 Last Born Cup, Bob, if you wish to have someone donate it.

This stay-at-home is always doubly pleased whenever he has received news of 1916 in the service, even if the news is brief. We have been informed that Whitey Carlson's address is now Capt. O. L. Carlson, % Fleet Post Office, San Francisco, Calif. This all supersedes Commander Carlson, Washington, D. C. So Whitey seems on his way to both Tokyo and an Admiralty. We wouldn't bet too heavily against either.

Ralph Donaldson is reported "Location unknown." Any news?

Paul R. Ehr Gott is reported as now at Dorchester House, 2480 Sixteenth St., N.W., Washington, D. C. He should tell us how he found a vacancy.

Class of 1917

WAYNE H. CARTER

735 Huntington Ave., Plainfield, N.J.

This month of April set a high-water mark for news about members of the class of 1917. It's a good thing too, with a deadline of April 19 set as of April 13.

Last Sunday (Easter) we were on top of South Mountain. I remember distinctly what the campus looked like in late 1918, but boys, it never looked so dismal as it did last week. A morgue would appear lively by comparison. From the gates of Sayre Park to the top of the mountain and back down again, we saw no signs of a student. The houses seemed to be closed entirely.

I knew that students were scarce but didn't think they were that few in number.

Boys! If you ever intend to do anything for your Alma Mater, do it now! The going is tough. Get behind your own representative, Sam Fishburn, and put your check in the mail.

The following letter from Sam needs no comment:

"Dear Nick:

"Received your check for the Lehigh Fund. Thank you very much.

"I think you will be glad to know that the response has been most encouraging, but there still remain a great many fellows who have not answered at all. Will you, through the medium of the Lehigh Alumni Bulletin, kindly tell the boys how important it is, at this crucial stage, for the University to have the wholehearted cooperation of all the alumni and that in the face of this fact our class last year donated only $220?

"Come on boys! Dig for a worthy cause and put 1917 where it belongs."

Last month when I was in Bethlehem attending the wrestling intercollegiates, with Pop Lytle, '19, and Bob Wickersham, '15, it was my pleasure to meet Commander Morris D. Gilmore of the U. S. Navy, brother of our own Commander Gilmore, and a swell guy in his own right.

Here is the letter I received from Commander Gilmore. All of you will be interested in it:

"Dear Mr. Carter:

"When I was in Bethlehem a couple of weeks ago we discussed my brother Walter and I told you that a ship of the U. S. Navy had been named in his honor.

"I have checked this and can assure you that the 'U.S.S. Walter W. Gilmore' is in full commission and on duty in the combat area. The ship is termed a destroyer escort.

"Walter's widow was present at the ceremonies placing the ship in commission. She is now residing in Los Angeles, Calif. Their son is a Captain in the U. S. Marine Corps, out in the middle of the fight in the South Pacific.

"I enjoyed my all too short visit with you, but trust our paths again may cross—possibly at another wrestling carnival up in your country."

Yesterday I received a letter from Chester W. Kingsley, P. O. Box 471, Ocala, Fla., which also deserves to be quoted in full:

"The war and travel troubles prevented me from attending the '42 reunion, even though Benny Achorn made it from Miami. Also 'Knockem' Breen said he would never attend any reunion after his 25th.

"However, I have a suggestion. Let's have our next reunion the June following the war's end. Call it an extra special one or what have you. I promise to attend, health permitting. And if 'Knockem' has acquired some teeth to go with 'Babe's' ear trumpet, maybe they will both come, it being a special event."

It was nice to hear from that boy, too. So long, gang! Don't forget the check for Sammy. His address is Union Bank Building, Bethlehem, Pa.

FREDERICK D. NAWRATH

U. S. Rubber Co., Naugatuck, Conn.

I am reminded that copy for the May Alumni Bulletin is due in a few days, and while it seems good to rush copy again, nevertheless the absence of information about our classmates is shocking. I enjoyed my good friend Roy Coffin's comments in the last Bulletin—"Putzi," we used to call him—but why he should take credit for getting Shipherd through college is beyond my comprehension. "Pop" and I had all we could do to keep Coffin awake, and get him through "Baldy's" classes.

The U. S. Rubber Company has employed me for 24 years—sometimes I wonder what for—and 15 of these years have been spent in Naugatuck, Conn., which is a very pleasant spot. In fact, I am a real New England Yankee now and like it. My family consists of my wife and one 17-year-old daughter, so no candidates are available for Lehigh.

Seymour Hadaway, '14, works for the same outfit here in town and Dick Bayard, '13, is in Waterbury, so we see him once in a while. Johnny Waltman, '25, drops in now and then—he is president of the Southern New England Club and peddles something for Atlantic Refining.

"Clif" Hipkins, '21, is in the municipal bond business in New York, and we tossed off one or two in a hurry the other day.

Please remember we all have a responsibility to Lehigh, and during these trying times Lehigh needs our support. Otto Spillman is doing a grand job as class agent, so please remember to send him your contribution to Lehigh.

Best regards until we meet again.

Fellow Classmates:

April 1, but "no foolin'" we as a class have to get moving if we are to meet our goal of 42 subscribers for a total of $600 to the Alumni Fund for the year 1943-44. As I write, 26 have subscribed $483.50. I know you are busy, I know you have many other appeals, but if 26 of us can find time and money to remember Lehigh, certainly many more of the 105 on our class list can respond. Let's show Sunnie Edwards, president of the Council of Class Agents, that he was right when he felt our class and all others back of 1935 could subscribe $1000, and I was wrong when I set the figure at only $600.

Wm. H. Hunton, Class Agent

No class news for a long time. Have heard from some of you in reply to my letter of March 4. Bill Lott is in charge of research and development in synthetic drugs at The Squibb Institute, New Brunswick, N. J. Ray Allgaier, who started with the Aluminum Company of America in 1920 and later left, is back with that company at Massena, N. Y. Ted Estes is plant manager of the Evansville, Ind., plant of Bucyrus-Erie, and expects to move his family out there this summer (and what a hot place Evansville can be). Bob Ott says, "I am still working for the Gas Company in Philadelphia, and putting it mildly, quite busy." Well Bob, you have a lot of company these days. I'll be glad for another 1920 reunion for some relaxation, and yet who ever relaxed at one of those affairs. A. J. "Sug" Sugar is with American Oil at Baltimore, Md., and says he is "so occupied with the grindstones that we won't even take time to lift our heads to look around." Sounds like old Doc Cobb's advanced organic class. Howard Bunn is in the plastic end of Carbide & Carbon Chemicals Corporation in New York.

About forty (40) of us get the Bulletin every month. Here is some news about six (6) of us. Doesn't it seem good to see 1920 back in print? How about some news from the rest of you?

Professor Allen Barthold, class agent, has issued an appeal for 1921 class support of the Alumni Fund so urgently needed by our old school with so many young men in the armed services overseas and so few paying tuition to keep the brown and white flag flying beside the red, white and blue. Please do everything you can to help, and then just a little bit more. Thank you!

"Pete" Weiss, who was pictured in this column as a captain a few months ago, writes in as follows:

"Your Lehigh letters have reached me during my 11-months' service in the Medical Corps of the U. S. Army. I had the rank of captain and was in line for a promotion when I injured my knee on an obstacle course. I was retired to inactive status, subject to recall in case the emergency arises. At the present time I am resting and expect to resume the practice of obstetrics and gynecology in Boston shortly."

Pete's address is 36 Perkins Street, Jamaica Plain 30, Boston, Mass.

Major S. S. Richards writes a letter showing plenty of stamina in traditional Lehigh style as follows:

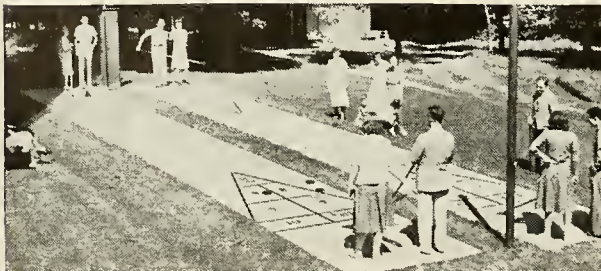

"I graduated with the class of '21, returning to college after having been overseas with the 1st Marine Aviation Force in World War I. The present war finds me overseas again, this time with the Army's Air Transport Command. It is still a young outfit, but

GEORGE F. A. STUTZ

422 Edgemont Ave., Palmerton, Pa.

We are glad to go back to press again after two silent issues due to a scarcity of news.

Lieut. Col. Emil Pasolli is on the General Staff of the War Department, located at the Pentagon Building, Washington, D. C., residence 1853 Wilson Boulevard, Arlington, Va.

I had an opportunity to see Bob Wood when he visited Palmerton recently and I have since had a letter from him enclosing his fund contribution. I am sure that Bob thinks a lot of Lehigh and he has been a consistent, loyal contributor to the fund, but I don't think he likes publicity on the subject. He is not willing to concede the idea that we are indebted to Lehigh to the extent that we should promote an Alumni Fund, but in spite of such thoughts he is still giving us very substantial help in meeting that quota of $1,200 which we have set for the year ending June 30.

Forbes Silsby is another who has backed us up on the Alumni Fund but who has some dissatisfaction to express. He is "a little dissatisfied with Lehigh, or at least the chemistry department, in the last several years. My offers of a good job seem to awaken no response so I assume Bethlehem Steel, New Jersey Zinc, and others have the inside track on all the good graduates. After receiving several brush-offs, I have had to turn elsewhere." If Forbes is able to turn up any chemistry graduates at the present time, either good or bad, I could use several at Palmerton.

I know you will all be sorry to hear that Bill Waltz died in Bethlehem on January 6. I have had a brave letter from his wife and I want to quote it in full.

"Bill had been on a leave of absence from G. E. since last February, due to a heart condition. Each month we hoped to return, so had all our household things in our Schenectady home. You see, we came down to Bethlehem to my father, Mr. T. E. Semmel, hoping that complete change and rest would improve his health. Dr. Stroud, the heart specialist at Philadelphia, had Bill under his care. At Schenectady we had had four or five doctors and Dr. Beebe of Albany. At times we felt hopeful, but January first he took a turn for the worse.

"Bill had been so happy at General Electric where he was assistant superintendent of the Steel, Iron, Brass, Aluminum, and Alloy Foundries and the Pattern Shop. He was also on the G. E. Metallurgical Committee of the various plants, etc. He had increased the steel foundry output 300% and installed very much new equipment. Bill also was enjoying working with the men of the Research Lab and Works Lab on new G. E. developments. It is a wonderful company and we were so happy in Schenectady.

"The children, Bea who will be 14 in June and Bill who will be 12 in May, and I are now making our home with my father.

"I know Bill would have enjoyed the Lehigh reunion. He took a keen interest in the Schenectady Lehigh Club.

"Sincerely, Beatrice S. Waltz."

Just a short note to give you a resume of the latest spring information that your class reporter has been able to pick up over the past several months. Your writer recently visited with Johnny Erb, who is still holding down the job of Tool Steel Procurement Agent at the General Electric Company in Schenectady.

I have just learned that two additional classmates are in the service of their country. Charlie N. Schragger, a lieutenant in the U.S.N.R., Squad V N 8 A, Naval Air School, Pensacola, Fla.; and Johnny Olcott, a major in the 1057th Engrs., Part Construction & Repair Group, at Camp Gordon, Johnston, Fla.

The following is the latest information your reporter has received as to addresses and positions, and any further information that you might have will be appreciated and passed on to the rest of our classmates: J. M. Conroy, 115 W. Main St., Moorestown, N. J.; H. F. Underwood, 45 Nassau St., New York, N. Y.; J. S. Hall, 1615 Grove Ave., Richmond, Va.; C. R. Minnich, 78 Prospect Ave., Norristown, Pa.; W. H. Loughton is general manager of the Bethlehem Alameda Shipyard and lives at 320 El Portal, Hillsborough, San Mateo, Calif.; S. C. Nevins, 837 Helen Ave., Lancaster, Pa.; L. Hornbostel is vice president in charge of engineering of the Beloit Iron Works, Beloit, Wis.; C. H. Miller is employed by the E. I. duPont de Nemours & Co., 5215 Kennedy Ave., East Chicago, Ind., but he resides at 7142 Magoun Ave., Hammond, Ind.

STEAM JET EVACTORS

AIDING NATIONAL DEFENSE

Numerous Croll-Reynolds Evactors are working overtime maintaining high vacuum in plants making explosives, synthetic rubber, airplane lubricants and a long list of other ordnance materials. They are maintaining high vacuum on engines and turbines of dozens of American ships sailing the seven seas.

While the large and special units require up to three months or more for fabrication the smaller ones are sometimes made in two weeks, or less, when the demand is urgent. These include single and multi-stage units for vacuum up to a small fraction of 1 mm. absolute, also small condensers and vacuum chilling equipment.

A recent development is a vacuum-cooled condenser for maintaining condensing temperatures down to 34° F. Inquiries will be handled as promptly as possible under the circumstances.

recently. I thought that possibly you could use some of them in the '24 column of the Bulletin, so I'll pass them along.

"Captain Bill Ayers wrote me recently from England, saying that the family have rented their house in Asbury Park to an Army officer and they are living in Waverly, N. Y. Bill Junior is in the eighth grade and Barbara is in the sixth.

"Sidney Sattenstein has been promoted to a lieutenant colonel. He writes that he went down to the South Pacific in the dark days of early 1942. He helped build an airport in a chain of airports to Australia. He says that they expected the Japs to call on them any day but that luckily none ever invaded that particular place, which has since become one of the biggest airports in the South Pacific. However, he left more than a year ago and has been in headquarters since, not doing engineering but oodles of Army paper work. Sidney expects to visit home some time during the summer in as much as he is now a two-year veteran. He hopes to see some of the classmates at that time.

"Captain Warren Edson writes me from the Big Spring Airport in Texas. He says he is helping to train the bombardiers that keep Hitler awake at night.

"And now I am going to close with a plug for your class agent. As you know, the Army has taken away the STP boys and current revenue has taken quite a nose dive. So the prompt attention of classmates who have not yet come through with their 1944 contributions, especially the Gift to Lehigh, will be much appreciated.

"Let me have a letter from you some time, Frank, and tell me what's cooking.

"Sincerely, Ralph."

MICHAEL J. RYAN

303 Georgia Ave., Bethlehem, Pa.

Ted Burke and Paul Finnegan recently took time out (and they're busy, too) to write very nice letters. Ted is stationed at Hingham Shipyard with Bethlehem Steel and Doctor Paul is in charge of the Medical Division of the Selective Service Headquarters at Trenton, N. J.

Lt. Comdr. "Dixie" Walker is stationed at North River Pier 88, New York, and for all we know he might get a chance to visit Mike Callow, who remembers Lehigh from Beech Road, Mersham, Surrey, England.

E. B. Hay is still with Bethlehem Steel as a salesman in the Atlanta office, and even farther south is Louis Pineda, who can be reached at La Casa Electrica, Maracaibo, Venezuela.

Friends of Joe Ricapito who knew that he was seriously ill and had undergone a major operation will be pleased to hear that he is recovering rapidly. You can drop him a line at 316 East Third Street in Bethlehem.

Al Bayles is with Rogers Diesel Aircraft Corporation in New York. He's very busy, but also very helpful. Thanks, Al.

Another '25 serviceman is Charles Wheeler, who has the rank of lieutenant and is permanent officer of the day, Flight Brigade, Naval Air Training Center, Pensacola, Fla.

Pete Nicola is with Rex Oil & Gas Company at Grand Rapids, Mich., while here in the East is Bill Behr at 85 Douglas Road, Glen Ridge, N. J. And in nearby Newark Harry Finley stands ready to "get you out" if you're pinched there.

Bob Adams, still a coal broker, answers to Box 432, Pottsville, Pa.; Jack O'Neill is with Travelers Insurance Co. and living in Allentown, and Paul La-wall is still district manager for Jeffrey Manufacturing Co., with his home at 571 W. South Orange Avenue in South Orange.

Finally, did you receive a letter recently? We have had some answers. 100% is the goal.

JOHN A. BISSINGER, JR.

907 E. Dorset St., Philadelphia, Pa.

We see that Lieut. Sam G. Mastriani, U.S.N.R., is back in this country again. His address is Public Works Dept., Naval Air Station, Atlantic City, N. J. Most of you should remember Sam, as he was a bona fide civil engineer who followed his profession after his graduation. Sam, of course, mixed politics with civil engineering before he entered the Navy. I don't know whether or not civil engineering was his vocation or avocation then. Sam will have to tell us that.

Capt. Leonard M. Fraivillig has a new address and is now across the water. Leonard is in the A.M.G. (Allied Military Government), in the civil affairs Centre, American School Centre.

Gerald H. Wintermute is now located at 4320 Woodberry St., University Park, Md.

George Leonard Sall, president of George Sall Metals Co., can be reached at Westmoreland and Tulip Streets, Philadelphia 34, Pa. His residence is 2287 North 51st Street, Philadelphia 31, Pa.

Doctor Samuel Goldstein has located at 616 Farragut Ave., Mays Landing, N. J.

The last we heard of Alden Irving McFarlan he was project engineer of Air Conditioning for Kerby Saunders, Inc., 330 W. 42nd St., New York City. His home address was 691 Dorian Road, Westfield, N. J. He has two children, both boys, 16 and 14 years of age. McFarlan was a mechanical engineer, if your memory can go back 18 years. (We certainly are getting old—it won't be long before our 20-year reunion rolls around.)

We hope that some of you may stop long enough to write in about yourselves or others.

CABLE ADDRESS—"EQUIPPER NEW YORK"

Bud Coates is evidently "over there" somewhere, judging from the new address just received, the only part we can publish being Capt. S. P. Coates, A.P.O. 638, % Postmaster, New York.

It is a pleasure to report that Todd Neath, who has been fighting the Japs in the Pacific Theatre, is back in the States. I haven't heard from him personally as yet but his present assignment is as follows: Major John T. Neath, Tactical Section, Academic Department, The Infantry School, Fort Benning, Ga.

Here's news about a Delt and member of '28 whose address was sent me by mistake. Recently I saw Stan Dey, '30, Newark insurance broker, on the train and he told me he had seen Homer Heller since his return from North Africa. Heller has made fine progress in the Army and is now a lieutenant colonel. The Martindale boys, who are in Washington, may be interested to learn that Brother Homer is residing at 5014 Glenbrook Terrace, N. W., District of Columbia.

One of our advanced R.O.T.C. students is also in the Capital and his address is 3330 Blaine Street, N. E. In reply to my note to him asking for personal information, this is what Captain Luther Bender wrote:

"I am still at the old stand, the OPA specialist for the OPA-Price analysis organization of Army Ordnance. I entered military service February, 1942, as a captain.

"Previous to entering the Army I was with the Electrical Unit, Machinery Branch of the Price Division of OPA. Other experience was with the War Department in Washington, with a utility consultant in New York, with the Pennsylvania Public Utility Commission in Harrisburg, and with the New Jersey Bell Telephone Company in Newark right after graduation.

Bill Dorsey also was considerate and wrote a short but newsworthy letter in response to mine. Bill, who like Lou was a reserve officer, is at present a captain and is assigned to Station 10, Pacific Wing, Air Transport Command, Fairfield, Calif.

"There is no time like the present to reply, so here goes," Dorsey says at the outset. "Married to Helen M. Mendenhall, 1928. Two daughters, Patricia Ann, 14, and Carol Jane, 7.

"Entered service July 19, 1942, as a first lieutenant (and got the works, as did most reserve officers!). Captain in Ordnance Department since March 5, 1943. Assigned to Air Corps, and now Motor Transportation Officer for the base.

"I spent over a year at Langley Field, Virginia, in charge of Motor Repair Shop. I don't like that part of Virginia but was glad that I was at such a good Post. Was transferred to ATC December 22, 1943, and the first month out here was at Hamilton Field, which is very handy to Frisco. Class of 1930

JOHN K. CONNEEN

904 Prospect Ave., Bethlehem, Pa.

By the time this reaches you the entire class will have my letter written February 22 and mailed in seven installments between that date and March 23. So far the following have been returned unclaimed, no forwarding address, etc: Dr. I. M. Clyne, Dr. A. C. Johnson, Capt. R. P. Kline, Mr. S. A. Kuntz, Lt. G. A. McClaskey, Dr. H. J. Muentz.

Please communicate with the writer if you know where any of these good doctors, officers and gentlemen can be located.

I want to thank all you men who have responded to our appeal for gifts to Lehigh. I know that many who have not sent any contribution up to now have every intention of so doing, come next pay day or just the right moment for some other reason.

I wish I could speak to each of you individually or in a group about the fund. I do want to emphasize the fact that all contributions, no matter how small or large, are needed and are most welcome.

We did a good job last year but there is lots of room to do a better one this year.

I certainly don't want to hog all the space for my story as class agent. I am really just pinch-hitting for Eli Whitney. Eli is working night and day in this war effort. I do have a few bits of news and hope you fellows will give me some more for the next column which Eli and I will work jointly.

Lt. Charlie Bauer is doing his stuff for our Navy and can be reached at Apt. 4C, Beech Spring Apts., Summit, N. J.

Major Jim Heilman has gone from Washington to the Judge Advocate General's School, Ann Arbor, Mich.

Clayton Boris is overseas, A.P.O. 513, % Postmaster, New York, N. Y., and would be glad to hear from you.

Bud Hill expects to be in some branch of the service, most likely the Navy, by the time this reaches you.

LT. COL. ROBERT H. HARRIS

1549 No. Jefferson St., Arlington, Va.

For several months now I have been screaming loudly that I was running out of news but apparently nobody believes me. The last of the letters which I received have been used in the column and now the cupboard is bare. The Bulletin subscribers will realize, of course, that the editorial staff stays about a month and a half ahead of the column, so by the time you read this there will be another newsless issue on the way.

I would like to extend my best wishes to all the class members and readers of the Bulletin and hope that we will have a chance to get together before too long.

ROBERT L. DAVIS

General Electric Company

326 W. Georgia St., Indianapolis, Indiana

It has been several months since your correspondent has written for the Bulletin. The lack of information on your classmates has been due to the fact that no correspondence has been received from any of them during the past half year. Captain Roy Sykes, however, has been most thoughtful in corresponding with the writer. He is at present stationed in Australia and is in charge of an M.P. battalion.

Latest information on Bunny Kolyer is that he is a major in the Army and is located somewhere in the jungles of Brooklyn, N. Y.

The Alumni Bulletin has received word that Fred Cunningham is a prisoner of the Japs. No other information is available.

It has been some time since we have heard from Burt Riviere. Perhaps Burt would drop us a line and give us some news of our friends located in the Pittsburgh area.

Frank Snively is still located in England. I believe we published a letter from Frank in one of the previous issues of the Bulletin.

ROBERT F. HERRICK

Alumni Office, Lehigh University,
Bethlehem, Pa.

The grand photograph of the bomber above will give you just a vague idea of a framed enlargement which our classmate, Major George Konolige, sent to the Alumni Office last month and which already has a prominent spot on the wall for display.

When we wrote to thank George we also uncovered the news that he has been transferred from his duties as commander of base troops but is remaining at MacDill Field as an Air Inspector. George indicates that an Air Inspector is of necessity an officer who has to "lose friends and alienate people" in the course of duty and, as he explained, "sees to it that all the regulations, directives, funds, leaves, etc., are abided by." George goes on to say that he will have a staff of administrative, technical and communication experts to assist him and will check everything on the Base from paper in the wastebaskets to crashes of planes. We certainly wish George all the luck in the world with this assignment in spite of the fact that it is out of keeping with his own good nature.

I only wish it were possible to relate the full details of a grand visit we had with Captain Bob Porter who has just returned from foreign duty in North Africa and Sicily in communications. In addition to his campaign ribbons Bob has two stars and would have had a third except that he was shipped into the North African sector a bit too late (D plus 13). Just before returning home he had received both his promotion and full responsibility for the work at his Base in Sicily in supplying the communications needs of the Signal Corps. He will probably have a domestic assignment for an indefinite period. Being in administrative work Bob was not actually in combat but took bombing attacks as routine and had a couple of narrow squeaks. His only hospitalization however was for malaria.

WHENTHERE'S NO TIME FOR BREAKDOWNS IT'S TIME TO GET A GORMAN-RUPP PUMP

Today, when time is the essence, you need a Gorman-Rupp Self-Priming Centrifugal Pump more than ever. There is not a quitter among them. The water passage has the same area as the suction hose. Muck, gravel, cinders—you simply can't clog them because solids cannot accumulate. There is no recirculation orifice to clog—no shut-off valve to jam—no hand priming regulator. There isn't a self-priming centrifugal pump made that will outwork a Gorman-Rupp in gallonage or continuous hours. Gas engine or electric motor driven. Capacities up to 125,000 GPH. There is a type and style to fit your every requirement. Stocked for immediate delivery in 100 principal cities.

in the belated announcement that Bob Lippard, Lieutenant, j.g., has been missing in action since February 11, 1943. To the best of my knowledge, Bob is the first of our classmates who may be presumed to have made the supreme sacrifice in this war and yet the "missing in action" always holds up a slender thread of hope. No details are available here as to Bob's theatre of operation nor the sector from which he made his last mission.

Since the last issue in which such gifts to Lehigh were credited, we have the following names to add as fund contributors: Bell, Bewley, Demarest, Haupt, Hoyt, Klatzkin, Landis, Nevin, Liggett, Thomas, Lloyd, McMeans, Meissner, Miller W. S., Pittenger, Ruth, Standing, W. R. Taylor, Jr., Walling, Weill and Zapffe.

We have a right to be proud of our standing on that chart in the front of the Bulletin which shows our class to have the highest percentage between the insurance classes and 1924 but how about some of the rest of you fellows really making it look good. This isn't a rich man's game. A couple bucks will do the trick as long as it is a "gift to Lehigh" so how about getting your name on this honor roll before the end of the month.

This column has just escaped for two months now becoming "See Here Private Herrick" but arrangements are all made with Prexy Ben to take over as soon as General Hershey decides to take this particular oldster into the garbage man-curing division. All of which brings to mind the current paraphrase: "Simple Simon met a pieman going to the fair, said Simple Simon to the pieman—you're in an unessential industry, aren't you?"

ROBERT W. BUCHANAN

Summit Medical Group

129 Summit Ave., Summit, N. J.

As class correspondent I have to admit that I have been non-functioning for the year 1943-44 up to the present moment. The shortage of doctors, (even large medical centers like Presbyterian Hospital have been drastically cut), going from hospital surgery to surgery as a private practitioner, and my duties with the New York Guard—Capt., M.C., 22nd Rgt., have made corresponding a physical impossibility. It would be impossible to bring you all up to date on the news during my delinquent period, so I will attempt to give you a bird's eye view of the situation as it pertains to 1935 men and trust you will accept my humble apologies for forsaking you all just when news means so much.

A letter from Lou Struble gives us the following "gems" and "tidbits": First of all I've neglected to do what I've really wanted to do for well over a year—namely, brag a little about L. P. the III, who arrived on January 9, 1943. You can enter his name on the rolls for the class of 1963 (he's got a Lehigh sweater with these numerals on it, as a matter of fact). His sister Peggy is a little past 4 years and he can already shove her around.

"As for me—I'm trying to help Dravo deliver LST's and DE's along with Ed Lore who is due to become a father for the second time in a very short while.

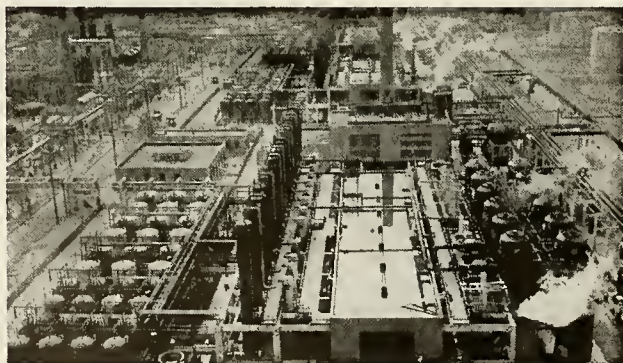

"I'm wondering if you have heard any recent news about Ralph Blythe. George McMeans, '34, told me that the Red Cross had reported him a prisoner of Japan, but that he was doing all right."

Thanks for the news, Lou, congratulations on the arrival and enrollment of Lou III, and I'm sorry I can't give you any recent dope on Ralph Blythe.

A letter from John Neely, Lt. (j.g.), indicates that he has seen plenty of action. He states in part, "While serving aboard a destroyer—not in my present capacity—I saw North Africa this year and from what I saw and smelled, I am perfectly willing to hand over Algeria to the French, Dutch, English, or anybody else who will have it. If you have a good, strong constitution and don't mind work, then duty on a destroyer is an ideal spot in this generation's war. Plenty of action, a fine spirit of informality and comradeship and fast sailing when the need arises—all in all a great life."

ROBERT M. EICHNER

R. D. No. 1, Ballston Lake, N. Y.

Major Clark Bartlett finally registers a hit with this letter from the Research Center, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Maryland:

"It's been a long time since I've taken time out to write a letter. Frankly, I'm not proud of my procrastination, but let bygones be bygones. Here goes!

"As for myself, I reported for a one-year tour of active duty at Aberdeen in November, 1940, and have been here ever since. After taking a one-month refresher course I was placed in the engineering section charged with the expansion construction of the technical half of the post (Research Center). The electrical and mechanical work, which was my assigned responsibility, proved to be extremely interesting. The experience derived from this work has proven invaluable. About one year ago I was assigned to the Force account construction shops and placed in charge of operation and maintenance of all 'plant' facilities. The force account shops also perform a large amount of construction that does not lend itself to being contracted. Again fortune smiled, for the work is right in my line and every day brings new and totally different problems to solve.

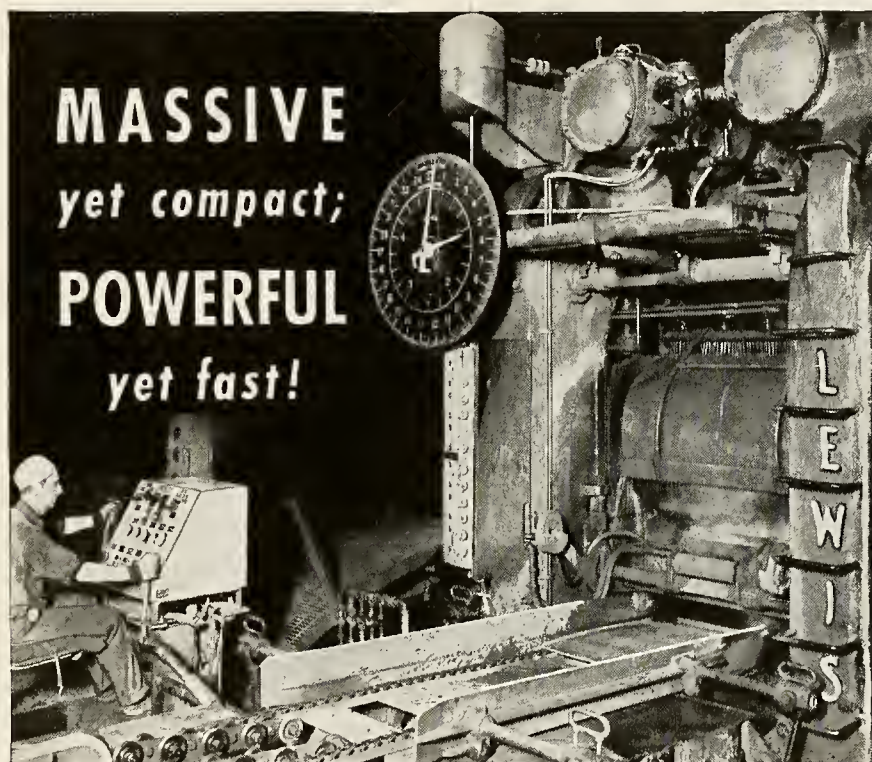

"Some time ago I lost track of the Lehigh men located in the training area of the post. Needless to say, the roster of Lehigh personnel who have passed through A.P.G. would approximate the roll call of the classes of '36 to '44. However, a few have wandered down in the Research Center. Gary Haulenbeck has been here for the last two years doing railroad contract work. His untiring effort has been responsible in a large part for A.P.G. being successful in accomplishing its mission. Fred Walker, whose story has already been told, has been here several times. Ed DePuy visited here prior to going overseas. He's in Italy at the present moment. Incidentally, Ed has become a father since his overseas shipment.

"By golly, so have I! Peter Bradley was born on February 29. Mother and son are swell. The old man bore up under the strain also.

"I'll try to do better next time."

Thanks a lot for the letter, Bart, don't hold the next one up so long. Glad to see that check and subscription for the new campaign—I've sent them both along. You no doubt got Johnny Kornet's March 14 letter describing the "Fund" as the blood bank of the University. None of us can remain skeptical regarding Lehigh's need but the returns are disheartening. It is so easy to neglect writing that check. Here's an argument for you hard-headed business men who want a return on your investments: Have you ever thought that your diploma is just about as good as the

It's time for the May column and there's a stack of letters at hand, so let's go.

A V-mail note from Rudy Baizley: "Certainly was glad to hear from you. The Navy has kept me out of contact with any of '38—damm it—so I have very little to contribute. As for me—well, I'm on a Tin Can and at present am somewhere within the reach of F.P.O. New York. Oh yes, I was married on January 19, 1944, to Ensign Mary Dyer, U.S.N.R.—a gal whom I met while I was on duty at U. S. Naval Base, Cape May. She is looking forward to a Sunday afternoon in Bethlehem, when this war's over—as many of us are. If I ever get the chance I'll give you a call. Good luck." Rudy's address is Lt. R. S. Baizley, U.S.N.R., c/o F.P.O., New York.

Here's a letter from Fritz Bayer, whom we haven't heard from for a heck of a long time: "As you see, I'm in the Army where I've been since 1941. Our outfit has been kicking all around the country, but is finally set to take off one of these days. Fortunately I've been able to have Gladys nearby most of the time. We've been taking winter training on skis and snowshoes and we're still going. Right now we're leaving on a 6-day job (on snowshoes). You can write Fritz as follows. Capt. Fritz Bayer, Hq. 2nd Bn.—304th Inf., A.P.O. No 76, Camp McCoy, Wis.

Al Barclay writes from 1549 South 75th Street, West Allis, 14, Wisconsin: "... As to personal notes, I am still with Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. and am now assistant engineer in the basic industries department. Had been traveling for the company, mostly to crushed stone, mining and chemical plants, testing and trouble shooting from January 1, 1942, until last year in September. Since then I have been doing mostly research work in our new laboratories here in Milwaukee..."

Bob Everts writes from Roseland, Nelson County, Virginia: "... The reason you have not heard from me more is due to the fact that I haven't stopped long enough in one place to write. I have been with the same company for the last 5 years but have been at several plants. I am plant superintendent of the Piney River, Va., plant of Carolina Mineral Co., which is a subsidiary of Consolidated Feldspar. We are situated about halfway between Charlottesville and Lynchburg, Va., on Route No. 29. Should anyone be going by this way, I certainly would be glad to see them."

Henry Hynson writes from 6644 Hillendale Rd., Chevy Chase, 15, Md.: "... Still with Electric Storage Battery Co. and spending most of my time here in Washington and at various Naval Stations in this area. Engineering Storage battery installations for all services, although mostly for material handling battery powered electric trucks—and special installations—Have been here since August '38. Married since August '41. Her name used to be Ruth Welda, of Allentown. Believe you met her at some of our school dances and football games. See quite a few of the boys around from time to time."

Lt. A. W. Jessup writes from 364 Yale Station, New Haven, Conn.: "Your note finally caught up with me after a long trip to Fort Still to Fort Bragg to New Haven. After completing my year as an instructor in the Field Artillery School, I went into the Officer's Replacement Pool at Fort Bragg. I received orders to report here for a special language course and an eventual overseas assignment of exceptional interest..."

David Jones writes from Carnegie Illinois Steel Corp., 617 1st National Bank Building, Denver 2, Colorado: "Out here in the wild west traveling through eight states as a contact technician for

Before signing off, congratulations to: Randy Young on his marriage to Jean Bridgman; Vance Edwardes on the birth of a daughter on Easter Sunday; Jim Mack on the birth of a daughter on April 6.

ENSIGN ROBISON CLARK, USNR

N.T.S. (I), Hollywood Beach Hotel,
Hollywood, Florida

Getting ready to come down here, I had to get my family moved from Lakewood, Ohio, to Philadelphia, which involved a trip to Bethlehem via Pittsburgh in a blinding snow storm. We reached Pittsburgh and gave Chuck Ahl a ring, but he was on the afternoon shift and wouldn't be back until after midnight so we bunked in at the William Penn. We got Chuck out of bed at 8:00 the next morning and were invited over for breakfast. They have a swell little apartment on South Highland Street which is furnished with the taste of an expert. We had a heluva time trying to keep Sally (our daughter) from grabbing all the little trinkets off the end tables. But the breakfast was delicious, and over coffee, Chuck mentioned that he had had a letter from Lt. Grant Stetson who is stationed in the Mediterranean area somewhere.

We would have liked to linger at Chuck's, but it's a long way to Bethlehem from Pittsburgh when the snow covers the highways.

Bethlehem was like Old Home Week. The Eastern Intercollegiates were being held in Grace Hall, and there were more than a few who returned to see them. On my way over to the Alumni Building, I bumped into Frank Connors who was just returning from a workout and swim in the gym. He is stationed at Fort Sampson and was home with Mollie on his first furlough. He said that he expected to be sent to Camp Breckinridge, but was sure of nothing until it happened. Right there we decided to make a date to meet at Joe's with our respective wives and talk the whole thing over. Joe, by the way, was glad to see us and wanted to know what Dick Matheny and H. T. S. Heckman were doing. Frank told me later that Lt. Will Pierpont was in charge of the Suzanne Transportation Service at Fort Jay, N. Y. He also mentioned that Rev. John Karl Meisner Baiz is director of Young Peoples' Activities at St. Bartholomew's in New York City. It seems he is presently directing plays, which proves his efforts at the histrionic art are not lacking. Frank had word from Rev. H. P. (Horsepower) Aldrich, who has a parish in upstate New York. Jack Sutcliffe, continued Frank, is now living in Springfield, Mass., and is employed by the Baldwin Duckworth Chain Co. The Sutcliffes have another little Jack, and they are training him for future Lehigh material.

393 No. Main St., Wallingford, Conn.

It is with deep regret that I announce the death of Capt. Henry Van Reed on March 13, 1944, in a plane crash.

Announcement has been made in London, England, of the engagement of Miss Pamela Margaret Havilock, of New Southgate, London, to Lieut. Quentin R. G. Keith of New York. The wedding is planned for May.

No doubt all of you received a letter from Sunnie Edwards, president of the Council of Lehigh Class Agents, in regard to our lack of a class agent for the duration. I have written Bob

College for the 17-Year Old

If you are not enlisted in a military training program for reservists, there are several sound reasons for choosing college now:

If you begin your college work now you are much more likely to complete work for a degree after the war than the boy who postpones his matriculation for the duration. You'll like college, you'll become interested in it, and you will want to return to it.

If you are inducted you can expect preferential assignment by classification boards because the military does take cognizance of your status as a student in good standing at an accredited university.

After the war the Federal government plans to provide college training for the men in the service whose college careers were interrupted by induction.

You can proceed in college now at the accelerated pace, studying under the very ablest men whom the University is retaining through these times of depleted enrollments. And if manpower needs change and your country does not have to call you to the service you are that much further along.

Every day you spend in college puts you that much ahead of the boy who chose otherwise.

You Can Begin Your Freshman Year June 21

Herrick to find out the duties of this position so I might pass it on to you. I quote his reply: "So far as the duties of the agent are concerned I am pleased to say they are not difficult, being confined almost entirely to the preparation of letters to the class calling to their attention the reason for Lehigh's financial need and urging their cooperation in this critical time. All of the preparation of the letters is carried out through this office and the class agent has only the job of writing the original copy (again with our help) and, depending upon his own desire for a class set-up, appointing such district agents as may help him in obtaining these gifts to Lehigh. In the case of the class of '40, where so many have already taken out Class Memorial Gift policies, the work is even less difficult as so many of the men in the class are already contributing through this plan. The class agent also attends one or more class agent meetings here in Bethlehem, if he can, where all the members of the Council pool their suggestions and aid the newer members in planning their campaign. It really is a rare opportunity for one man in the class to perform a real service to the University and to the Alumni Association while getting a lot of personal pleasure out of it himself. Most Lehigh men inherently want to help and the class agent simply serves as a medium of reminder, or somewhat as a catalyst in the process."

Not only will one of you help the University and our class but also yourself as you renew old acquaintances and meet many new people. Any of you interested in being class agent may contact me at the above address or write the alumni office.

LT. DONALD R. SCHOEN
Camp Murphy, Fla.

What with an acute scarcity of letters from you fellows, the late arrivals of the alumni office deadline notices, and a general shortage of time on the part of your correspondent, this column has been conspicuously among the missing recently. Very sorry, fellows; will try to avoid it in the future. (Any of you want to write a guest column?)

Sand, Sweat, and Skeeters

... these to me sum up Florida once the winter season has passed. (Do I tread on anyone's toes?) Fortunately, though, only a few Lehigh men seem to be down here. Sgt. Dick Ware is still doing classification work in Miami Beach; I had dinner with him a while back. Charles B. Taylor, Jr., is in Bradentown, Fla., doing work for the U. S. Coast and Geodetic Survey. Bob Loose was in Miami Beach a while back in an Air Corps training group and Lt. Charles Clarke was with special troops of the 2nd Army at Camp Blanding, but I don't have any dope on the more recent whereabouts of either of these two.

Traveling Salesman

... that's the way ex-football captain, now USNR Lieutenant Bill Hauserman described himself to me when I ran into him in Boston several months back. Bill is working out of Mare Island, Calif., but spends the bulk of his time traveling up and down the east coast investigating paint problems at the various shipyards. The job is interesting and Bill puts in many miles of travel, but he's awaiting the day it'll be on the water.

School Days

It seems to be the fate of a good many of us today to join the Army and find ourselves back in school. Ensigns Sam Cross and John Beal, for instance, are stationed at the Washington, D. C., Navy Yard, attending the General Ordnance School. Ensign Fred Bahnsen is taking work in electronics at the Naval Training School at Bowdoin College in Maine. John Taylor is a Naval Air Cadet at Pensacola, and Seymour Kott is one of those who presumably is still at Boston University under the A.S.T.P. program.

Around the World

An alumni office tracer indicates that Ensign Carl Hartdegen III is one of those who have what most Navy men consider a prize assignment—work on a submarine. Carl is on the U. S. Submarine Haddo. Captain Jim Anderson is with the 85th Cavalry Reconnaissance Squadron, Mechanized, and the latest address I have for him is APO 255, Indiantown Gap, Pa. Capt. Henry (Gabe) Werner is with the 823rd Ordnance Base Depot Company at the Pomona, Calif., Ordnance Base.

Lt. Raymond Miller is with the 786th Tank Battalion and when last heard from was in Camp Chaffee, Ark. Lt. Andrew Luse took his O.C.S. work at Fort Monmouth, N. J., and is with the 974th Signal Service Co. Bill Matheson was in Bethlehem a while back and reported that he is assigned to the Anti-Aircraft Artillery board detachment at Camp Davis, N. C.

Staff Sergeant Bill Bley's overseas address is APO 9511, New York, and Capt. Bill McConnell's, APO 811, New York.

Lt. Russ Burke wrote from Tinker Field that he was expecting to pull out soon. Len Miller and Bob Gnsdorff are at the Field with Russ. S/Sgt. Howard Luley has been knocking around in the Engineer Corps since he enlisted last June. After a tour of duty at Camp Claiborne, La., Howard was put into the ASTP and sent to the University of Illinois, then to the University of Minnesota and now he's back at Illinois studying sanitary engineering. Luley writes that Jack Ransom is taking graduate work at Carnegie Tech and doing research work in aircraft.

allurgist at the Syracuse Plant of Crucible Steel Co. on stainless and aircraft steels. Bert Miller married Muriel Gilbert and is with the wrought products division of the Aluminum Co. at New Castle, Pa.

Joe Sexton sent lots of class news in his letter to me. Joe is inspection engineer for the M. W. Kellogg Co. in New York. His job is liaison among the purchasing, inspection, and engineering departments relative to design, material, and fabrication problems. At the New York alumni meeting he ran into Frank Rockett, who is teaching a course in electrical engineering at Columbia University; Howard Schroeder is an ensign stationed in New York; John Saylor is with the Standard Oil Laboratories at Bayway; and Wally Wirths is working for Alcoa at Edgewater, N. J. Other dope from Joe shows Bill Marshall working for Alcoa at New Kensington, Pa., and married; Bob Coleman an Ensign; Stan McDonald, an ensign, a husband, and a father; Harry Mahoney a sergeant stationed at Ft. Logan, Colo., and Fred Wright, a lieutenant, USMCR, instructing in instruments at Whiting Field, Fla.

Lt. John Adams wrote that Bob Ashley, Bill Lindsay and he were really hitting some important construction work in Italy after coming through Africa and Sicily. They've been overseas for eighteen months now.

IN MEMORIAM

Frank Faust, '94

Frank Faust, former general superintendent of the steel freight and passenger car departments of the Berwick American Car and Foundry plant, died at his home in Milton on April 25, 1943, following a cerebral hemorrhage.

Mr. Faust matriculated at Lehigh from the Berwick schools and while at Lehigh was active in sports and a member of the varsity football team. Upon graduation in 1894 he took a position as draftsman with the American Car and Foundry, rising rapidly to the position of foreman and then superintendent of the blacksmith, machine and forging departments in the expanding plant after the turn of the century. At the time of the first world war he became district manager of the Buffalo plant and went from there to Milton, Pa., in 1919, as general manager of the plant. He retired in 1925.

Mr. Faust was a member of the board of directors of his city's hospital, of the Berwick Lodge of Elks, and of the Milton Chamber of Commerce. He was also a director of the First National Bank of Milton.

He is survived by his widow.

Luther L. Gadd, '94

Word has only recently reached the alumni office of the death of Luther L. Gadd on December 27, 1942.

Born in Sudlersville, Md., Mr. Gadd attended the public schools there and entered Lehigh in 1890, graduating as an electrical engineer in 1894. He then took a position with Levering and Garrigues and rose to the office of vice president of the firm before the company sold out to Bethlehem Steel Corporation. Retiring to Queen Anne's County after the combination of the two companies, he was made the first president of the Queen Anne's Record and Observer Publishing Company. He served in this office for five years, when ill health made it imperative that he retire.

Mr. Gadd is survived by his widow, his son Damon, two brothers, Sydney Gadd, Sr., of Centreville, and Robert F. Gadd, '93, of Hartford, Conn., and two sisters, both of Sudlersville, Md.

Edward D. Hillman, '98

Through his cousin, Robert R. Harvey, we learn of the death on June 7, 1943, of Edward D. Hillman at his home in Germantown, Pa.

Mr. Hillman was graduated from the University in 1898 with the degree of Mechanical Engineer. He was greatly interested in archaeology and spent much of his time in Arizona and New Mexico.

Charles F. Gross, '00

Charles F. Gross, a civil engineer of Upper Darby, Pa., died April 7 and was buried April 11, in Belvidere, N. J. He is survived by his wife, a daughter and one granddaughter.

Further details are lacking.

John D. Rogers, '03

John Dwight Rogers, vice president of the Stonega Coal and Coke Company, Big Stone Gap, Virginia, died March 24, according to word received from his son.

Mr. Rogers was graduated as a civil engineer but throughout his life had been associated with various coal and lumber companies. Besides the Stonega Coal and Coke Company, he was vice president of the Virginia Coal and Iron Co.; Central Supply Company of Va.; Virginia Wholesale Co.; Clearcreek Water Co., and the Cumberland Water Company.

He served as president of the Virginia Coal Operators Association for most of the one-year terms between 1931 and 1943 and was vice president of the Virginia Manufacturers Association in 1942-43. He was also a director of the First National Bank of Appalachia, Va.

Much of Mr. Rogers' time and energy was devoted to civic and national affairs. He held office and was greatly interested in the Boy Scouts, Red Cross, the Masonic Order, Kiwanis, etc., and was a member of the State Appeals Board of Selective Service in Roanoke, a director of the Lonesome Pine Country Club, and a trustee and chairman of the board of deacons of the Presbyterian Church.

His son is Gilbert D. Rogers, of the class of 1936.

Peter G. Lehman, '41

Lt. Peter G. Lehman, son of the former New York Governor Herbert H. Lehman, was killed on March 31 during acrobatic maneuvers in a fighter plane over his home base in England.

In 1940 Lieutenant Lehman took private flying lessons at Roosevelt Field and after having 100 solo hours to his credit attempted to enlist as an aviation cadet in 1940 and 1941 but was rejected because he was married.

In September, 1941, he went to Ottawa and was accepted for training by the Royal Canadian Air Force and one year later was graduated into the RCAF at ceremonies in Ottawa at which his father pinned the pilot's wings to his tunic. He went to England in November of 1942 as a flight sergeant.

Lieutenant Lehman was one of a group of ninety fliers who were transferred in the spring of 1943 to the United States Eighth Air Force, where he was made a flight officer. He had been on 57 missions and wore the Air Medal with three oak leaf clusters and was scheduled to receive the Distinguished Flying Cross.

Besides his father and mother, one sister and a brother, Lieutenant Lehman is survived by his widow and two daughters.

Robert H. Christy, '42

On April 8 Lieutenant Robert H. Christy, United States Army flier, was killed when his plane crashed about 20 miles north of Memphis, Tennessee.

Lieutenant Christy's home was in Overbrook, and before entering Lehigh he was a student at Blair Academy.

Frank P. Czighuth, '42

Lt. Frank P. Czighuth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Czighuth of Allentown, died March 26. No details have come to the attention of this office, except verification by his commanding officer.

Lieutenant Czighuth had been with the Army Air Forces since his graduation from the University in '42 and at the time of his death was apparently at Peterson Field, Colorado Springs, Colo.

Frederick C. Tillberg, Jr., '42

Frederick C. Tillberg, a metallurgist with the Aluminum Company of America in Alcoa, Tennessee, died instantly on the morning of April 29 when a car he was driving along the Alcoa Highway struck a concrete bridge. Mr. Tillberg was hurled through the right door of the car 60 feet down a bank into the edge of Loudoun Lake backwater.

A native of Virginia, Mr. Tillberg was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick C. Tillberg, now of Philadelphia.

Stephen H. Butler, '43

From his parents, in Waterbury, Connecticut, word comes to us that Lieutenant Stephen H. Butler, pilot of a Flying Fortress, was killed in action over Germany on January 11.

Lieutenant Butler was a member of the Theta Delta Chi fraternity. He was an engineering student and left the University several years ago to join the Army Air Forces.

Douglas M. Congelton, '44

Douglas M. Congelton, a private with the Army Signal Corps, and believed to be fighting with the Chinese Army in Burma, was killed in that theatre of action on February 10.

Young Congelton was a member of Sigma Phi fraternity.

William S. Graham, Jr., '45

William Scott Graham, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. William S. Graham of Washington, D. C., was killed April 6 at Lambert Field, Mo., when a Navy training plane, piloted by an advanced cadet of the RAF, made a safe trip but spun into the ground on attempting to land and burst into flame. The two boys were rescued from the burning plane but Graham remained unconscious and died a few hours later.

A seaman, second class, Graham entered the Navy V-12 program in December, 1942, and completed two years in mechanical engineering at the University before being called to active service in July of last year. He would have begun training as a naval air cadet about April 20, having been on duty with the operations ground crew at the Naval Air Station since March 5.

He was a member of Alpha Kappa Pi fraternity.

One of the many MANHATTAN Conveyor Belts used in National Lead Company's MacIntyre Development.

This ORE that goes to WAR, rides MANHATTAN CONVEYOR BELTS

Steady and relentless as conquering columns, more than a million tons of iron and ilmenite ore will travel yearly from the Adirondack MacIntyre Development over MANHATTAN Conveyor Belts to step-up production of steel and titanium—both critical metals for War.

American vision and courage drove this development to a quick and successful completion after research had matured techniques for reducing magnetite ores.

The same kind of persistent, determined research developed the MANHATTAN FLEXLASTIC principle which gives strength, toughness and resistance to impact to the covers on MANHATTAN Conveyor Belts—covers which are intimately bonded to engineered strength members.

It is these two exclusive MANHATTAN developments—FLEXLASTICS* and engineered strength members—which have brought tonnage handling costs down to fractional parts of a cent, through capacity, easy troughing and long life.

51st YEAR OF RESEARCH

At MANHATTAN there is no furlough for four things:—Research, Testing, Care and Inspection. This applies to every product, whether it is Power Transmission Belting, V-Belts, Conveyor or Bucket Elevator Belts, Hose, Rolls, Molded Rubber Goods or any other item.
